Administrative Information

Immediate Source of Acquisition

Gift of Henry A. Kissinger, 2011.

Custodial History

Part I: Materials in Part I of the Kissinger Papers document his life from 1957 to 1982 and include copies of records from his government service. Part I was given to the Library of Congress by Henry A. Kisinger in 1976 and 1977, shortly after leaving office. Consult the Library of Congress (http://www.loc.gov/rr/mss/) for further information.

Part II is comprised of materials that are owned either by the Library of Congress or Yale University (Yale) and document Dr. Kissinger's pre-government, government and post-government careers. When they were in Dr. Kissinger's possession, the papers formed an integrated collection. To maintain that integrity, as well as increase access to these materials, the two institutions agreed to a joint project undertaken by Yale to arrange, describe and digitize them. Each institution now holds both paper and digital copies of Part II. The work was funded by Charles Johnson, Yale class of 1954, and Nicholas Brady, Yale Class of 1952.

Part III: Materials in Part III were originally maintained by Dr. Kissinger's staff. They primarily document his post-government years. They were gifted to Yale in 2011.

Conditions Governing Access

Access to the collection for materials designated as "open with permission," requires written permission from Henry A. Kissinger or his designated representative until five years after Kissinger's death. Researchers must use the online access system for the digital version of this collection to submit their requests for permission from Kissinger. The portal to the digital collection provides researchers further instructions for requesting access and permissions, see http://web.library.yale.edu/digital-collections/kissinger-collection.

The following collection materials are open to research: Writings in Series I; White House, State Department, and Public correspondence and Speeches and public statements in Series II; 1982 heart surgery correspondence and Speeches and writings in Series III; and Series IV-VII.

The entire collection has been digitized. As per repository policy, researchers must use the digital copies instead of the originals.

Conditions Governing Access

Original computer files may not be accessed due to their fragility. Researchers must consult access copies.

Conditions Governing Use

Copyright is retained by Henry A. Kissinger for works he has authored and provided during his lifetime to the Yale University Library. After the lifetime of Dr. Kissinger, all intellectual property rights, including without limitation all copyrights, in and to the works authored by Dr. Kissinger pass to Yale University, with the exception of all intellectual property rights, including without limitation all copyrights, motion picture and/or audio rights in and to his books, interviews and any films that will be retained by Dr.

Kissinger's heirs and assigns. Copyright status for collection materials other than those authored by Dr. Kissinger is unknown.

Except for the limited purposes allowed by the Yale University Library Guide to Using Special Collections, exploitation, including without limitation the reproduction, distribution, adaption, or display of Dr. Kissinger's works protected by the U.S. Copyright Act (Title 17 U.S.C. §101 et seq.) beyond that allowed by fair use requires the written permission of the copyright owners. Works not in the public domain shall not be commercially exploited without permission of Dr. Kissinger, the copyright owner. Responsibility for any use rests exclusively with the user.

Preferred Citation

Henry A. Kissinger Papers, Part II (MS 1981). Manuscripts and Archives, Yale University Library.

Processing Information

Because Series I-III of Part II are comprised of materials owned either by the Library of Congress or Yale University (see Provenance for more information), every page in Series I-III has been marked with an [LC] or [Y] in the upper right-hand corner to indicate ownership of the original document. Every item in Series IV-VII is owned by the Library of Congress and does not have any corner markings. Each institution has the originals of the documents it owns and copies of the documents owned by the other, arranged identically at both institutions. Effectively, Part II at the Library of Congress and Yale University is the same. If researchers have reason to view the physical original of a particular document, as opposed to a digital or paper reproduction, they should contact the institution that owns the original document.

Materials that contained classified national security information have been removed from the collection for declassification review. Classified item withdrawal forms mark the specific locations from where these documents have been removed and provide brief descriptions of the documents.

Although most of Part II is arranged into roughly chronological series (Series I-III), a few files that may have been originally created during Kissinger's early career or government service will be found in a later series because his staff refiled these materials with the later files, often adding notes, annotations and documents of more recent origin. When files are arranged chronologically, archivists have provided undated material that appears at the end of a section with rough date approximations in order to facilitate digital searching and discovery. These date approximations take the form of, for example: "Undated, circa 1955-circa 1968."

Existence and Location of Copies

The entire collection is available in digital form through Yale University Library.

Paper copies of Yale-owned materials are in the Library of Congress collection.

Related Materials

Associated material: Henry A. Kissinger Papers, Part I are located at the Manuscripts Division, Library of Congress. Additional moving images and sound recordings are located at the Motion Picture, Broadcasting and Recorded Sound Division, Library of Congress.

Related Material: Henry A. Kissinger Papers, Part III (MS 2004).

Existence and Location of Originals

The originals of the Library of Congress-owned materials, including all of series IV-VII are in the Library of Congress collection. Physical copies of series IV-VII were not retained by Yale.

Biographical / Historical

Henry Alfred Kissinger was born Heinz Alfred Kissinger on May 27, 1923, in Fürth, Germany, and immigrated to the United States in 1938. After studying at Harvard University, he joined the faculty there as a member of the Department of Government and made a reputation for his scholarly work on international affairs, which included his best-selling book Nuclear Weapons and Foreign Policy, published in 1957. He served as assistant to the president for national security affairs (national security advisor) from 1969 to 1975 and as Secretary of State from 1973 to 1977 under presidents Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford. In office, he was known especially for his work on normalizing relations with China, detente with the Soviet Union, peace negotiations for the Vietnam War and his Middle East shuttle diplomacy. After leaving office, Kissinger remained an influential author and commentator on foreign affairs and founded the international consulting firm Kissinger Associates.

Scope and Contents

The papers consist of correspondence, memoranda, writings, speeches, photographs and other material that document the career of the diplomat, author and foreign policy expert and scholar Henry A. Kissinger, who served as United States secretary of state from 1973 to 1977 and as assistant to the president for national security affairs (national security advisor) from 1969 to 1975. These papers constitute Part II of a three part collection of Kissinger's personal papers. The Part II papers primarily document his career before and after he worked in government, as a professor at Harvard University and later as an influential author and commentator on international affairs and consultant. The Part II papers also contain material relevant to his years in office.

There are three major collections (Parts I-III) of Kissinger's personal papers at the Yale University Library and the Library of Congress. Part I, maintained at the Library of Congress, consists of materials primarily documenting his government career and includes copies of records from his government service. Part II, which this finding aid describes, is maintained at both the Library of Congress and Manuscripts and Archives, Yale University Library. Part III, maintained at Manuscripts and Archives, Yale University Library, is comprised of materials mainly documenting Kissinger's post-government career after 2000.

The papers in Part II document Kissinger's professional life from his years in college and the United States Army in the 1940s to his post-government career into the 2000s. The Yale University Library and the Library of Congress each holds both paper and digital copies of Part II with identical content (although Yale maintains only digital copies of Series IV-VII). The three Parts of the Henry A. Kissinger papers complement and overlap each other in numerous ways which the finding aids for each Part describe in greater detail. The Provenance section of this finding aid provides more information about the division of the papers into the three Parts.

For documenting Kissinger's government service, Part II materials are an important supplement to Part I and Part III materials and to the official records of Kissinger's government service at the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA). Part II contains his personal correspondence as well as subject, trip and speech files from his time in office in Series II. While some of the documents in these files may duplicate those found in Part I and at NARA, others provide additional information about Kissinger's service in government, especially his transition into government and his contacts with friends, private associates, the media and a broader public. Documents in Series II also provide a wider window into Kissinger's ordinary day-to-day routine and work process in office through schedules, drafts, logs and materials created by his staff aides. A smaller number of documents, including the memoranda of conversation in Series II, touch upon policymaking, especially the public presentation of policies, but the documents in Part II by themselves tend to provide only a fragmentary picture of the policies they concern.

Throughout Part II, memoranda of conversation are often especially informative documents because they are detailed summaries or nearly verbatim accounts written to document a specific conversation.

Beyond his government service, the Part II materials richly document Kissinger's post-secondary education in the 1940s and 1950s and early career before he entered government in 1969. Most of these materials can be found in Series I. Student files detail his education at the City College of New York, Lafayette College while serving in the Army and Harvard University, primarily through class notes and papers. Army files offer a view of his military training and service in World War II, his role in the military government of Germany during the post-war occupation and his study of military government during the Korean War that he conducted as an Army reservist in 1951.

Kissinger's academic career as a member of the Harvard University faculty and prolific author on international relations is well-documented through correspondence, trips and speeches files, writings and professional files, including his Harvard University files concerning the Center for International Affairs, the journal Confluence, the Defense Studies Program, the Harvard International Seminar and his teaching. There are also files from his work with the Council on Foreign Relations during the 1950s and 1960s and the writing of his widely-read Nuclear Weapons and Foreign Policy, published in 1957.

Kissinger's work with Nelson A. Rockefeller is covered extensively in files concerning the Special Studies Project, a sweeping study of United States national policy funded by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, and in files concerning Rockefeller's service as governor of New York and his campaigns for president in 1964 and 1968. Materials addressing Kissinger's consulting work with the John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson presidential administrations, including his fact-finding trips to Vietnam in 1965 and 1966, can be found among his professional files with additional material in the correspondence files of Series I.

The materials from Kissinger's early career provide valuable documentation of the development of the new scholarly field of nuclear strategy and security studies that was emerging in the 1950s and 1960s. They also shed light on the transnational Atlantic community of political and academic leaders whose personal and intellectual ties helped to maintain good relations between the United States and Western Europe and sustain the NATO (North Atlantic Treaty Organization) alliance during the Cold War. The files concerning his education and early career are also an invaluable source for tracing the development of Kissinger's early thinking on diplomacy and his rise to influence.

The Part II papers provide extensive documentation of Kissinger's career after he left office in 1977 into the 2000s, primarily found in Series III. The papers do not include files from his international consulting firm, Kissinger Associates, which he founded in 1982. The papers, however, do provide insight into his dealings with the international business community and foreign governments, primarily through correspondence and a small number of memoranda of conversation. His continued work advising on American foreign policy is documented through correspondence as well as files on his chairmanship of the National Bipartisan Commission on Central America from 1983 to 1984.

The papers offer substantial coverage of his work as an author and public commentator on international affairs. There is only a limited record of the publication of his acclaimed and best-selling memoirs and other books published after he left office that includes neither drafts nor drafting notes. However, there is a wide variety of speeches and articles, including drafts for his regular column in Newsweek magazine. In addition, his post-government correspondence provides material on the writing and editorial process for many of his publications including his memoirs and books. A substantial portion of the subject files and some of the correspondence in Series III concern Kissinger's efforts to explain and clarify the policies he pursued while in office. Additional material on his post-government career can be found in Part III, especially for the period after 2000.

Beyond his career and professional life, Part II is a useful resource on Kissinger's family and social life. While materials concerning his family are scarce, there is scattered correspondence with family members including his brother, Walter Kissinger, and his father, Louis Kissinger, as well as a large number of family photographs. Kissinger's friends and social life, including his friendships with many celebrities and his own growing celebrity in the early 1970s, is documented through correspondence and press clippings. There is very little material on Kissinger's life before he studied at the City College of New York in the early 1940s.

Arrangement

The papers are arranged in seven series: I. Early Career and Harvard University, 1922-2006. II. Government Service, 1943-2007. III. Post-Government Career, 1838-2007. IV. Cartoons, 1969-1978. V. Photographs, 1906-2002. VI. Press Clippings, 1955-2001. VII. Moving Images and Sound Recordings, 1961-1998.

Collection Contents

Series I: Early Career and Harvard University, 1922-2006, bulk 1954–1968

Early Career and Harvard University, 1922-2006

The early career and Harvard University files document Kissinger's post-secondary education and career before he entered government service in 1969.

A copy of this material is available in digital form from Manuscripts and Archives and online.

Series I is arranged into five subseries: Correspondence, Student files, Professional files, Trips and speeches, and Writings.

Correspondence 1943-1969

Correspondence, 1943-1969

The correspondence in Series I spans the years from 1943 to 1968, although the bulk of the materials is dated between 1952 and 1968. It deals almost exclusively with the professional and academic part of Kissinger's life; there is very little discussion of any personal or family topics.

Kissinger's writings and publications are well documented through his correspondence with Max Ascoli, Hamilton Fish Armstrong, Stephen Graubard, Caryl Haskins, William Kintner and Philip Quigg. His correspondence with McGeorge Bundy, William Y. Elliott, David Riesman and Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., richly documents their involvement with his early academic career and especially with the journal Confluence and the Harvard International Seminar. Starting in 1961, Kissinger's correspondence with Bundy and Schlesinger documents some of his work as a consultant to the White House, although more materials can be found in the professional files. Kissinger's early career correspondence also provides substantial material on early scholarly work on nuclear strategy and what would become the new field of security studies through correspondence with many of the most influential scholars and practitioners in the area including Bernard Brodie, Thomas K. Finletter, James Gavin, Robert Osgood and Albert Wohlstetter. Others with whom Kissinger had substantive and sustained correspondence include Kurt Birrenbach, with whom Kissinger often discussed NATO and the evolving state of United States-German relations, and Wayland Young, with whom Kissinger discussed potential International Seminar participants, funding for the Pugwash conferences and the evolution of the disarmament and arms control movement. While Kissinger's outgoing correspondence is all in English, some of his European correspondents wrote in French or German.

Please note that correspondence associated with specific topics or projects can be found filed with other types of material throughout Series I.

The papers are open with permission unless otherwise noted.

Student files 1939-1955
Student files, 1939-1955

These files span the breadth of Kissinger's post-secondary education, from the early 1940s to 1954. They include a small amount of material from classes he took at the City College of New York's School of Business and Administration and at Lafayette College, which he attended as part of the Army Specialized Training Program. The student files most comprehensively document Kissinger's time as an undergraduate and then graduate student at Harvard University with class notes, papers, exam blue books, class reading lists and ephemera. These files contain manuscript and typescript drafts of Kissinger's undergraduate thesis and doctoral dissertation. A typescript draft, book reviews and correspondence documenting the publication of his dissertation, A World Restored: Metternich, Castlereagh and the Problems of Peace 1812-22, can be found with the writings files of Series I. Kissinger's involvement with the journal Confluence and with the Harvard International Seminar are documented in the Harvard University section of the professional files of Series I, as his involvement in both these projects continued after his graduation.

The papers are open with permission unless otherwise noted.

Professional files 1944-2006
Professional files, 1944-2006

The files documenting Kissinger's professional life before 1969 are arranged into four sections. The first section contains general files that cover a broad range of topics, while the other three document his time spent in the United States Army on active and reserve duty, his tenure at Harvard University and his work for Nelson A. Rockefeller.

The papers are open with permission unless otherwise noted.

A copy of this material is available in digital form from Manuscripts and Archives and online.

General 1949–2006

The general files document Kissinger's involvement in various organizations and conferences, including the Pugwash and Bilderberg conferences. Kissinger's work with the Council on Foreign Relations and the University of Pennsylvania's Foreign Policy Research Institute are especially well documented in these files. Of particular note, under the heading "Government consulting for the Lyndon B. Johnson administration," are materials related to Kissinger's trips to Vietnam in October 1965 and July 1966. Both of these trips to Vietnam are extensively documented through correspondence, including with Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and diaries Kissinger kept during his travels. The diary for the 1965 trip is over 250 typescript pages and details his meetings with leaders of the American and South Vietnamese war effort including William Westmoreland, Nguyen Cao Ky and Edward Lansdale. The materials under this heading also document Kissinger's participation in the Paris peace talks of 1967 with proposal drafts and notes that provide daily accounts of his experiences between September 9 and October 21, 1967.

	Army The Army files document Kissinger's military service from 1943 to 1946 and his service as a reserve officer from 1947 to 1959. His service in the Counter Intelligence Corps in Germany is documented by notes, including ones about Germans living in Bensheim, Germany, and their affiliations with the Nazi party, as well as military orders and scattered correspondence. Drafts of lesson plans on European and German history document his work as an instructor for the European Command Intelligence School at Oberammergau. His service as a reserve officer is documented by correspondence, information bulletins and military orders. In 1951, Kissinger spent three months in Korea, where he conducted a study of military government and civil affairs activities by the United States Armed Forces. The trip is documented through correspondence, interview notes and drafts of reports based on his findings there. Harvard University — 1950–1969

The Harvard University files document Kissinger's many positions at the university. Kissinger's involvement with the founding of the Center for International Affairs in 1957 and its activities through 1969 is documented by correspondence and reports. The individual files contain papers and correspondence from persons who were involved with the center, either as research fellows and associates, or as a part of its staff. The seminars files contain papers written by participants, correspondence, schedules and memoranda.

This section also contains materials--primarily correspondence--pertaining to Kissinger's founding and editing of the international affairs journal Confluence, which was published between 1952 and 1957. This correspondence, along with the correspondence of Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., and McGeorge Bundy found in the Correspondence subseries, documents Kissinger's effort to create a journal in which intellectuals from Europe, Asia and America could exchange views on politics, philosophy and the humanities.

There is also substantial material concerning the Defense Studies Program which sought to create a forum for the study of defense policy and to train graduate students for government service in areas related to national security. Its main activity every year was the Defense Policy Seminar which Kissinger ran with W. Barton Leach, a professor at Harvard Law School, and which brought in military officials and policymakers as guest speakers. Kissinger's Defense Policy Seminar is well documented from 1956 to 1960 and from 1966 to 1968.

Kissinger's role in establishing and running the International Seminar is extensively documented, especially for the years 1956 and 1957, by correspondence about the program's funding and potential participants. Since the seminar sought to bring students from abroad and foster international understanding and ties, a persistent theme in this correspondence is Kissinger's search for a diverse group of participants, in both nationality and interests.

Nelson A. Rockefeller work — 1954–1968

The Rockefeller files document Kissinger's work for Nelson A. Rockefeller between 1955 and 1968, most notably on the Special Studies Project and as a foreign policy consultant. The Special Studies Project was organized and funded by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund in 1956. The project was composed of a number of different of panels, each of which studied a specific area of national policy: foreign policy, international security, foreign economic policy, domestic economic policy, education or the social aspects of democracy. The project published the findings of its panels in 1961 as a book titled Prospect for America. Kissinger served as director of the project until his resignation in June 1958, after which he served as a consultant for the project. Nelson A. Rockefeller was the chairman of the project until May 1958. Most of the materials in this section are dated between 1955 and 1958. The administrative files include memoranda, correspondence, meeting notes, reports, outlines of the report and its panels and lists of participants. There are also background papers, which were used as the foundation of the panel reports.

The two gubernatorial papers sections span Rockefeller's first three terms as governor of New York and his failed presidential nomination bids in 1964 and 1968. During this period, Kissinger worked as a foreign policy consultant for Rockefeller. Although most of the foreign policy consulting Kissinger did for Rockefeller concerned Rockefeller's presidential campaigns, some of the material was used for speeches or other work not clearly associated with the presidential contests. No attempt has been made to distinguish Rockefeller's gubernatorial papers and campaign materials from presidential campaign materials (nor is it clear that Rockefeller's staff did so).

For the papers dated between 1959 and 1964, administrative files include Rockefeller's calendars, Kissinger's expense reports and reimbursements and other materials pertaining to the running of the research unit responsible for creating much of Rockefeller's foreign policy background material. The correspondence files primarily consist of Kissinger's correspondence with Rockefeller and other members of Rockefeller's staff, but they also include copies of letters Kissinger drafted for Rockefeller. The position papers document the evolution of Rockefeller's position on a variety of domestic and foreign issues over the course of his first term as governor of New York. The speeches document Rockefeller's speaking engagements during his first term. They include correspondence about Rockefeller's speeches and other public appearances, speech transcripts and drafts, as well as background material Kissinger or others may have used while writing Rockefeller's speeches and public statements. The study papers heading contains the papers commissioned by Kissinger for Nelson A. Rockefeller after he became governor of New York in 1959. Commissioned from subject experts on a wide variety of foreign and domestic policy issues, these files contain both the papers themselves and correspondence with the authors and Rockefeller staff involved in the project. The subject binders consist of background material that was originally housed in a run of numbered binders created by Rockefeller's research staff. They mainly cover foreign affairs and national defense topics, and they are arranged in their original number order. The subject files contain background papers, reports and memoranda prepared by Kissinger and Rockefeller's research unit staff.

Most of the materials in the section for the years 1965 to 1968 date from 1967 and 1968. The correspondence files primarily consist of Kissinger's correspondence with Rockefeller, members of his staff, other Rockefeller consultants and Kissinger's research assistants. They also contain copies of letters Kissinger drafted for Rockefeller, as well as copies of Rockefeller's correspondence with others that were given to Kissinger for either reply or general information. The Kennedy family files contain press clippings and copies of public statements made by members of the Kennedy family, primarily John F. Kennedy and Robert F. Kennedy. Many of the clippings pertain to Robert F. Kennedy's successful New York Senate campaign in 1964, and seem to have been compiled by the incumbent Kenneth Keating's staff, although there are also materials that are dated after the race. These files are included here, even though the John F. Kennedy materials are dated from the early 1960s, because the materials were all filed together at the time of donation. The meetings files contain background material, correspondence and summaries pertaining to Rockefeller's meetings with various foreign policy experts and foreign dignitaries during his 1968 bid for the Republican presidential nomination. The platform comparison files consist of comparisons of Rockefeller's platforms on a variety of issues with the other possible 1968 Republican nominees, including Hubert Humphrey, Robert F. Kennedy, Eugene McCarthy, Richard Nixon and Ronald Reagan, as well as with those of the Republican Party. In addition, there are also comparisons of Rockefeller's Vietnam platform with the policies of Robert McNamara and Dean Rusk.

Trips and speeches
Trips and speeches, 1950-1968

1950-1968

The trips and speeches files contain the materials documenting Dr. Kissinger's travels and speaking engagements between 1954 and 1968. During this period, Kissinger did not generally write out his speeches prior to delivery. Instead, they are documented by his notes and outlines, or by transcripts of the speech created by the organization to which Kissinger spoke. In addition, many of these files contain correspondence concerning scheduling and travel arrangements made for speaking engagements.

Kissinger's trips abroad are documented in general by correspondence, itineraries, letters of introduction, guest lists for events Kissinger attended, ephemera and travel brochures. Trips which are particularly well-documented include Kissinger's trip to Europe in May 1961, his trip to the Middle East and India in the winter of 1961-1962 and to Brazil in May and June 1962. Of particular note for Kissinger's trip to Norway, Sweden, the Netherlands, England, Germany and France in May 1961 is a twenty-four page handwritten diary detailing Kissinger's activities, impressions and meetings. The materials from his trip to Israel, Iran, India and Pakistan in the winter of 1961-1962 include detailed typescript diaries of Kissinger's activities and meetings in Israel (50 pages), India (80 pages) and Pakistan (18 pages) and memoranda of conversation with R. K. Nehru, M. J. Desai and Krishna Menon. A 129 page trip diary Kissinger prepared for private circulation documents his trip to Brazil in May and June 1962. Kissinger's trips to Western Europe from 1962 to 1967 and his discussions with Europeans about the NATO alliance are documented by a number of memoranda of conversation, including with Konrad Adenauer, Hans-Egon Bahr, Attilio Cattani, Jean de la Grandville, Louis Mountbatten, Paul Stehlin and Dirk Stikker. Diaries and related materials for Kissinger's trips to Vietnam in 1965 and 1966 for the Johnson administration are found in the professional files of Series I, under the heading for government consulting.

The papers are open with permission unless otherwise noted.

Writings — 1922-1969

Writings, 1922-1969

Writings by Kissinger and others span the years from 1947 to 1969. Articles and papers that were written specifically to fulfill school requirements while Kissinger was an undergraduate or graduate at Harvard University can be found in the student files. Of note are two unpublished works: In Search of Germany and an untitled work on Otto von Bismarck. In Search of Germany focused on what was new about the Federal Republic of Germany and what represented continuity from former German states. Kissinger was the editor of the work, which was to include chapters written by a number of German intellectuals. The contributors met for a conference in 1965 that is documented through transcripts, meeting minutes and correspondence, in addition to drafts of chapters. The work on Bismarck is incomplete, but it is documented by three typescripts of over 170 pages each and a manuscript of about 200 pages.

The writing, publication and reception of Nuclear Weapons and Foreign Policy is well documented. Correspondence files for the book contain discussion of the book's reception, as well as Kissinger's responses to reviews. Additionally, there are many drafts of the book, including a manuscript draft and typescript chapter drafts extensively annotated by a number people, including Philip Quigg, George Franklin and Kissinger.

The article files include correspondence, drafts, reprints or original copies of the published work and notes. Notes that were not identified as belonging to a specific work are found in the notes and research materials files. The writings by others files contain articles, reports and pamphlets written by people other than Kissinger, many of which are unpublished. These files generally include the work mentioned in the title, occasionally with other materials like correspondence.

The materials are open for research.

Series II: Government Service, 1943-2007, bulk 1969–1977

Government Service, 1943-2007

The government service files document the period during which Kissinger served as assistant to the president for national security affairs (national security advisor) from 1969 to 1975 and Secretary of State from 1973 to 1977 for presidents Richard Nixon and Gerald R. Ford.

A copy of this material is available in digital form from Manuscripts and Archives and online.

Series II is arranged into four subseries: Correspondence, Subject files, Trips, and Speeches and public statements.

Correspondence 1943-2006
Correspondence, 1943-2006

A copy of this material is available in digital form from Manuscripts and Archives and online.

The correspondence is arranged into six sections: General, White House transition, White House personal file, State Department personal file, White House appointment congratulatory mail, and Public mail.

General 1946–2006

The general files were arranged together by archivists because this correspondence spanned the entire period of Kissinger's government service from 1969 to 1977. The files contain incoming and outgoing correspondence and enclosures. Based on their file markings, some individual letters appear to have been originally filed with the White House and State Department personal files but were subsequently refiled with these general files before archivists arranged the materials. The correspondence is usually personal in nature, such as letters and postcards from friends and mail from students, professors and publishers related to his scholarly work. However, it includes copies of letters thanking foreign leaders for their hospitality during official visits and mail concerning Kissinger's private press and political contacts, including communications with members of Congress. Scattered throughout this correspondence are comments related to Kissinger's work in office. Of particular note are letters with Hussein, King of Jordan, on the 1973 Arab-Israeli War, Frances FitzGerald on the 1972 Christmas bombing in Vietnam and Candice Bergen on the documentary Hearts and Minds about the Vietnam War. There are also a small number of private memoranda concerning government affairs and letters offering counsel on foreign policy to Kissinger such as those from Laurence Lynn and McGeorge Bundy.

The papers are open with permission unless otherwise noted.

A copy of this material is available in digital form from Manuscripts and Archives and online.

White House transition 1966–1971

White House transition

The White House transition files contain correspondence primarily from late 1968 and early 1969 as Kissinger began serving as assistant to the president for national security affairs. Correspondents who address planning and policy issues for the new administration include W. W. Rostow, who preceded Kissinger as national security advisor, former foreign policy officials including Francis Bator and Townsend Hoopes and a variety of other foreign policy experts such as Lincoln Bloomfield of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), Alastair Buchan of Carleton University, Richard Gardner of Columbia University, Robert Strausz-Hupé of University of Pennsylvania and Samuel P. Huntington and Richard Neustadt of Harvard University. Frequently, reports and studies on various foreign policy issues accompany the correspondence as enclosures. Topics most prominent are the Vietnam War, reorganizing the foreign policy bureaucracy, arms control and, to a lesser extent, the international monetary system, the Middle East, China and intelligence. The Stewart Alsop, Richard J. Barnet and Robert Shaplen files contain accounts of discussions concerning Vietnam policy from the fall of 1969.

The materials are open for research.

White House personal file 1943–1975

White House personal file

The White House personal file consists of incoming and outgoing correspondence and their enclosures maintained by the White House Central Files unit while Kissinger served as assistant to the president for national security affairs from 1969 to 1975. These correspondence files, which were not considered official records because of their personal nature, were returned to him when he left office. The correspondence documents Kissinger's personal contacts with friends, colleagues and a wider public while in office. Most of the material consists of requests--often for meetings--various acknowledgments and thank you notes, as well as correspondents sharing writings and papers with Kissinger. The few policy-related documents and their cover letters in this file are photocopies with cross references to the White House Central Files Subject Files (available at the Nixon Presidential Library) marked in the upper right-hand corner, which suggests the originals can be found there. Only a small number of the correspondents address foreign affairs in any detail and usually only briefly. The files for correspondents whose last name begin with the letter N can be found in the Henry A. Kissinger Papers, Part III.

The materials are open for research.

State Department personal file 1957–1977

State Department personal file

The State Department personal file consists of incoming and outgoing correspondence and their enclosures maintained by State Department staff while Kissinger served as secretary of state from 1973 to 1977. These correspondence files, personal in nature, were returned to him when he left office because they were not considered official records. The correspondence documents Kissinger's personal contacts with friends, colleagues and a wider public while in office. Most of the material consists of requests--often for meetings--various acknowledgments and thank you notes, as well as correspondents sharing their writings and papers with Kissinger. Only a small number of the correspondents address foreign affairs in any detail and then usually only briefly. The files also include copies of correspondence with foreign leaders and others, usually short letters of appreciation, with stamps suggesting the originals were handled by the State Department's Executive Secretariat.

The materials are open for research.

Subject files
Subject files, 1958-1978 — 1958-1978

Subject files consist of correspondence, memoranda, writings and published materials concerning a variety of topics related to Kissinger's service as assistant to the president for national security affairs and as secretary of state. Major topics include his appointment and transition to the White House, in particular his work on reorganizing the National Security Council (NSC) in the new administration of Richard Nixon, and public reaction to the 1970 Cambodia operation, especially from Harvard University and other academic colleagues and students. The memoranda of conversation provide detailed accounts of Kissinger's discussions, often nearly verbatim, with the media, Congress, business leaders, professors and students. The Vietnam War is a frequent topic in the memoranda. Kissinger's day-to-day work and operation of his office is documented by his schedule, a chronology that logs the documents produced by his office and a detailed memoir by his secretary Sally Austin-Dahler. The Rodman files were maintained by Kissinger's close personal assistant Peter W. Rodman and consist primarily of policy-related correspondence sent to Kissinger. Although each folder in the Rodman files tends to contain only a few letters or other documents, they touch upon a number of important issues including the Watergate scandal and the 1972 Moscow summit. Some of the subject files may have been assembled by Kissinger or his staff after his time in office for reference purposes. They remain filed with Kissinger's other government service files because the documents date from his time in office.

The papers are open with permission unless otherwise noted.

Trips 1968-1977

Trips, 1968-1977

The trip files mostly contain scheduling materials for Kissinger's visits abroad and around the United States while serving as assistant to the president for national security affairs and secretary of state. For visits during which Kissinger made a speech or public statement, the files may contain talking points and published or reading copies of Kissinger's comments. Occasionally, files include related correspondence or other documents. The file for the 1972 presidential visit to China contains only a detailed schedule. See the speech files for drafts of speeches. A small number of the subject files also concern trips.

The papers are open with permission unless otherwise noted.

Speeches and public statements — 1968-2007

Speeches and public statements, 1968-2007

The section organized by event contains mostly drafts, reading copies, transcripts and talking points from Kissinger's official speeches, press and Congressional briefings and other public statements. Frequently, speech drafts include annotations written in Kissinger's hand. The section organized chronologically contains mainly official versions of Kissinger's public statements whether released as White House or State Department press releases or published in government periodicals. In the chronological section from the years 1969 to 1973, the first folder for each of the five years contains a list of public statements for the entire year. However, the folders from these years also include material concerning public statements not on these lists. The events and chronological sections overlap each other with much interrelated material. Many of the trip files also contain material relevant to these speeches and public statements. Kissinger gave few public speeches before he became secretary of state, and so files in both the event and chronological sections before September 1973 predominantly concern background briefings ("backgrounders") he gave to the press and Congress.

The materials are open for research.

Series IV: Cartoons, 1966-1978

Cartoons, 1966-1978

The cartoons consist of an extensive collection of political cartoons and caricatures of Kissinger's time in office from 1969 to 1977 and his emergence as an international celebrity. Only a few date from before or after his time in government. Many of the cartoons are ink drawings while others are prints. Frequently, the cartoons are signed by the artist and include a short note to Kissinger. Most of the cartoons appeared in American newspapers and magazines, but a few of the cartoons come from publications abroad. A smaller collection of similar cartoons can be found in the Henry A. Kissinger Papers, Part III.

The materials are open for research.

Series IV is arranged into four subseries: Small, Medium, Large, and Extra large.

Series V: Photographs, 1906-2002, bulk 1969–2002

Photographs, 1906-2002

The photographs document Kissinger's life starting from his Army service in 1944 through his work with Kissinger Associates up to 2002. The bulk of the photographs concern Kissinger's career and personal life after he left government in 1977. The files from his government service years depict only selected events, particularly Kissinger's trips abroad. In general, official White House photographs and photographs from the American press are not included in these files, which are primarily composed of photographs taken by private individuals, professional photographers and foreign press or governments. A number of folders contain correspondence, usually a single letter that accompanied the photographs. There are a number of photographs from Kissinger's first trips to China in 1971 and 1972, some apparently from Chinese photographers. Two of the photograph albums document his fact-finding trip to Vietnam in 1965. Additional photographs can be found with the correspondence files of Series I, II and III.

See the Henry A. Kissinger Papers, Part III for additional photographs, especially for those dating after 2002.

The materials are open for research.

Series V is arranged into three subseries: General, Oversized, and Albums.

Series VI: Press Clippings, 1955-2001

Press Clippings, 1955-2001

The press clippings document Kissinger's career and public prominence from his time at Harvard University, starting in 1955, to his continuing role in international affairs up to 2001. The files primarily consist of clippings from major American newspapers but also include articles from magazines, smaller local American newspapers, foreign newspapers and wire service reports. Most of the clippings concern Kissinger, his diplomacy and other accomplishments and the public fascination with him and his celebrity status, especially in the 1970s. A small portion of the clippings cover topics of interest to him like German politics in the 1960s.

The materials are open for research.

Series VI is arranged into three subseries: Chronological, Subject, and Scrapbooks.

Series VII: Moving Images and Sound Recordings, 1961-1998

Moving Images and Sound Recordings, 1961-1998

The motion picture film consists of footage taken during Kissinger's years of government service from 1969 to 1976. Most of the film is of Chinese and Soviet origin and documents the United States opening to China and the Moscow summit from the perspective of those countries although much of the narration, when present, is in English.

The video and sound recordings document a number of speaking engagements, lectures and interviews in which Kissinger participated, primarily from the 1960s to the early 1980s and many of them overseas. Very few of these concern the years during which Kissinger served in government. Of particular note are the few sound recordings of Kissinger teaching courses, both at Harvard University in 1968 and Georgetown University in 1980.

For additional video and sound recordings, mostly from later years, see Part III of the Henry A. Kissinger papers.

The materials are open for research.

Researchers must register and agree to the Yale University Library User Agreement for Special Collections before accessing audiovisual material in this collection.

Gaps in box numbering reflect the removal of a small number of duplicates identified late in processing. Box numbers 884, 887, 888, 890, 892, 901, 917, 918 and 934 do not exist.
