Daly, Radley H. , 2007 May 11

Rad Daly graduated from Yale College in 1949 and spent the early years of his career as an executive with Pepperidge Farm Bakery. He was appointed Business Manager of the Yale University Libraries in 1968 and held a number of key administrative posts mainly in the provost's and secretary's offices including: 1968/1969: Business Manager, University Libraries; 1971/1972: Associate Librarian Administration; 1975/1976: Associate Provost for Personnel under Hanna Gray; 1980/1: Director Administrative Services; 1986/1987: Director Administrative Services and Associate Secretary under John Wilkinson; 1989/1990: Associate Secretary under Sheila Wellington; 1991/1992: Deputy Secretary and Marshal; and 1998/1999: Retired University Marshal and Deputy Secretary. In 1999 he wrote for his 50th reunion book: "It's been great to be part of the scene in a period when such extraordinary challenges were given and such successful results achieved. I'm enormously grateful for the opportunity to stay on in retirement with an office in Woodbridge hall as a volunteer working on the program for the tercentennial celebrations."

Franke, Richard J. , 2008 May 18

Yale Corporation Fellow, 1987-99, two six-year terms. Senior Fellow six years. Yale benefactor.

Richard J. Franke graduated from Yale College in 1953 and from the Harvard University Business School in 1957. In 2001, Yale awarded him an Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree. He served as Chairman and CEO of John Nuveen & Co. before serving on the Yale Corporation. Widely recognized for his philanthropic work, Franke founded the Chicago Humanities Festival and was awarded the National Humanities Medal by President Clinton. The Franke Lectures at Yale were donated by Richard and Barbara Franke to present important topics in the humanities. In 1995 he matched all outright gifts between five and $50 thousand designated for the renovation of Sterling Memorial Library, and a total of $3.3 million qualified for the match. The Franke Periodical Reading Room is named in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Franke.

She came to Yale in 1966 with her husband Brian J. Skinner, now a professor of geology & geophysics. Skinner served as Master of Jonathan Edwards College, 1977-82. She was the second woman to be appointed master, other than Katherine Lustman who completed her husband's term as Master of Davenport College; and the first to serve a full term. [Rosemary Stevens served as Master of Jonathan Edwards for only one year, 1974-75.] As of 2011, Skinner is still teaching and researching full time. Her major interest is in biominerals, especially bone mineral.

Spence, Jonathan D. , 2009 May 5

Jonathan Spence came to Yale in the fall of 1959 as a Clare-Mellon Fellow, after graduating from Cambridge University and serving in the British army. He then entered the Yale Graduate School and received a Ph.D. degree in 1965, when he joined the Yale faculty. Spence became the George Burton Adams professor of history in 1976 and Sterling Professor of History in 1993. He retired from full-time teaching in 2008. One of the world's leading experts on Chinese history and culture, he was selected by the National Endowment of the Humanities to deliver the 2010 Jefferson Lecture in the Humanities (considered the most prestigious honor the federal government bestows for achievement in the humanities). The author of more than a dozen books, his most famous work, The Search for Modern China (1990, rev. 1999), became a New York Times bestseller and continues to be a standard text on Chinese history from the 17th century.

Trachtenberg, Betty , 2009 February 11

Betty Trachtenberg began her Yale career in 1975 as an assistant in the admissions office. She developed the Eli Whitney Students Program for students of non-traditional age or background and directed summer term admissions and freshman affairs. She was dubbed the "Landlady of the Old Campus" for the attention she paid to every aspect of freshman residential life. Trachtenberg is also referred to by the students as the Dean of Sex, Drugs, and Rock'n'Roll. She served as Dean of Undergraduate Affairs for twenty years under five deans and retired in the spring of 2007.

Wilkinson, John A. , 2007 January 30

Secretary of the University, 1981-1987 June.

After graduating from Yale College in 1960, Wilkinson worked for Yale for twenty-one years, 1960-1974 and 1981-1987. While studying for a Yale MAT degree awarded in 1963, he served as Assistant Dean of Freshmen and Assistant Master of Ezra Stiles College. From 1963-1974, he served as Dean of Stiles College, Assistant Dean of Yale College, and Associate Dean of Undergraduate Affairs. He left Yale in 1974 to become headmaster of the Hopkins School in New Haven. In 1979, he returned to Yale as University Officer for Development and Alumni Affairs, and in 1981 was appointed Secretary of the University. As Secretary he was Yale's chief liaison with the City of New Haven and represented Yale's administration on many issues of concern to on- and off-campus groups. In 1987, Wilkinson resigned to take a position as headmaster of the Germantown Friends School.
