CALL NUMBER: Ms Coll 40

CREATOR: Tully, William, 1785-1859

TITLE: Tully Family Papers

DATES: 1667–1915

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION: 1.5 linear feet (3 boxes)

LANGUAGE: English

SUMMARY: William Tully (1785-1859) was professor of materia medica and therapeutics at the Medical Institution of Yale College from 1824 to 1842. The collection contains a small amount of correspondence by or to Tully and limited material on Tully's medical career. One subseries concerns settling the estate of William Tully and finding funds to support his daughters Sarah and Elizabeth. The collection contains genealogies, original documents of the Tully family in Connecticut, and also documents related to ancestors of Tully's wife, Mary Potter Tully, particularly her father, the Rev. Elam Potter, and her stepfather, the Rev. Nehemiah Prudden. Photographs include daguerrotypes of Tully's children.

Administrative Information

Immediate Source of Acquisition

Harry B. Ferris, M.D., professor of anatomy at Yale University School of Medicine, obtained this material in 1930 along with some of Tully's furniture from the woman who let rooms to Elizabeth Tully in Springfield, Massachusetts, before her death in 1915. He donated the papers to the Beaumont Medical Club in 1934. They are on permanent deposit in the Historical Library.

Conditions Governing Access

The materials are open for research.

Some items are too fragile to copy.

Conditions Governing Use

Biographical / Historical

William Tully was born on November 18, 1785, the son of Colonel William and Eunice Tully of Saybrook, Connecticut. He graduated from Yale College in 1806. In the spring of 1807, Tully began studying medicine with Mason F. Cogswell of Hartford and in the fall of that year traveled to New Hampshire to study medicine with Nathan Smith at Dartmouth College. Upon his return to Connecticut in 1810, Tully studied under Samuel Carter and entered the office of Eli Ives, later professor of materia medica at Yale. Tully was licensed to practice by the Connecticut Medical Society in 1810 and opened an office in Enfield, Connecticut in 1811. In 1813, he married Mary Potter of Enfield. Tully lived and practiced for several years in Middletown, Connecticut, where he co-authored with Dr. Thomas Miner a book, Essays on Fevers, and Other Medical Subjects (1823). From 1824 to 1830 he was president and professor of medical practice and jurisprudence at the Vermont Academy of Medicine, in Castleton, Vermont. While at Castleton he was appointed professor of materia medica and therapeutics at the Medical Institution of Yale College and moved to New Haven; however he remained on the staff of the Vermont Academy until 1838. Tully resigned his chair at Yale in 1842 and eventually moved to Springfield, Massachusetts, where he lived with his two unmarried daughters, Sarah and Elizabeth. He continued his practice and taught at the Berkshire Medical Institution in Pittsfield, Massachusetts. Late in his career, he published Materia Medica, or Pharmacology and Therapeutics (1857-58). He died in Springfield on February 28, 1859, predeceased by his wife and survived by only three of their eleven children, Sarah, William, and Elizabeth. Sarah and Elizabeth continued to live together in Springfield after their father’s death.

The Tully family came to New England from England in the 1640s. Tully’s grandfather, William Tully of Saybrook married Elizabeth Lay and had three daughters and a son, Col. William Tully (1758-1811). Col. Tully married his cousin Eunice Tully (1758-1815) and had only one child, William Tully (1785-1859) who became a physician. Dr. William Tully’s wife, Mary Potter (1791-1853), was the daughter of the Rev. Elam Potter (1742-1794) of Enfield and Sibyl Pease Potter (1754-1822). Some time after 1799, Sybil Potter was married again to the Rev. Nehemiah Prudden of Enfield, then a widower.

Scope and Contents

The collection is comprised of a small amount of personal correspondence of William Tully, memoranda, receipts, and wills. There is considerable material on the settling of Tully’s estate, especially correspondence of the executor, Dr. Edwin Seeger. Seeger and others arranged for the sale of Tully’s books by auction and tried to have his manuscripts (now unlocated) published. Among the estate papers are notes on patients who still owed money to Tully. The correspondence of Sarah and Elizabeth Tully in the collection mostly concerns the estate, financial matters, and family. The family part of the collection relates to the ancestry of the Tully, Potter, Pease, and Prudden families. There are Tully land deeds going back. to the seventeenth century, a Bible signed by “John Tulley” in 1667, notes on scriptures by the Rev. Elam Potter, and two sermons by the Rev. Nehemiah Prudden of Enfield, as well as genealogical material and early documents related to the families. Photographs include twelve daguerrotypes of Tully’s children, including of Hephzibah Tully who died in 1849.

Arrangement

Organized in four series: 1. William Tully (1785-1859) and immediate family. 2. Tully family ancestors. 3. Potter, Pease, and Prudden families. 4. Photographs and miscellany.

Letters by William Tully

Letter, New Haven, to [Dr. Cornelius S. Baker]
1835 January 3

Draft of a letter to a suitor to one of his daughters. The recipient is probably Dr. Cornelius S. Baker who later married Tully’s daughter, Eunice, on January 26, 1836.

To Dr. Hazen, Middletown - typed transcript of a letter
1855 April 24

On making Tully’s Compound Powder of Camphor as a substitute for Dover’s Powder. Tully does not know which Middletown Hazen is from, but sends his letter to Middletown, Connecticut. The original letter is not in the collection.

Letter, Pittsfield, Massachusetts, to Edwin Seeger, M.D., Springfield, Massachusetts
1858 October 11

Tully is in Pittsfield, Massachusetts. Letter discusses his giving lectures and whether the students are prepared well enough by Dr. Childs. Discusses his own health.

Letters to William Tully

From Daniel Bontecue, Springfield
1833 April 8

To Tully in New Haven on the death of Tully’s daughter Catherine and the death of his own daughter.

From Cornelius L. Baker, “Churchville”
1835 January 18

To Tully in New Haven regarding his daughter Eunice Tully.

From S. M. Tully, Saybrook
1837 February 11

Sends Mr. Pratt’s account.

From J. Barnes, Middletown
1838 February 21

To Tully in New Haven concerning accounts.

From Edward C. Herrick, New Haven
1853 December 2

Herrick handled legal affairs for the Tully family. He requests information on the type of stone and inscription for the grave, probably for Mary Tully, Dr. Tully’s wife, who died in September 1853.

R. E. Pratt, Saybrook, to William Tully
1858 January 25

Financial and personal.

From J. Branch, “Abbeville”
1859 December 19

Is replying belatedly to Tully’s letter. A physician friend will visit Tully in Springfield. Tully had died February 28, 1859.

From T. F. Welch, Milford

Concerning a prescription that Tully gave him.

From Frances A. Clarke

Incomplete letter with envelope addressed to William Tully in Springfield “per Miss Elizabeth L. Tully.” On reverse is a pencil transcription from the tombstone of the Rev. Elam Potter (1742-1794), father of William Tully’s wife.

William Tully M.D. died February 28, 1859 in Springfield, Massachusetts, where he was living with his two daughters, Sarah (1817-1901) and Elizabeth (1830-1915). He was also survived by a son, William (1830-1880), who married in 1860. The settling of Tully’s estate is well documented in these papers. Though William received some assets, the overwhelming concern was to find enough money to support the two unmarried daughters throughout their lives.

b. 1, f. 12
Monies owed by and to the estate of William Tully
These bills were collected by Edwin Seeger, M.D. of Springfield, Tully’s executor. Included is a list of money donated to Sarah and Elizabeth Tully in memory of William Tully, by various people including Yale medical professors. 1859–1860

3. Potter, Pease, and Prudden families

This series relates to the ancestors of Dr. William Tully’s wife, Mary Potter Tully (1791-1853), particularly the Potter, Prudden families. Mary Tully was the daughter of the Rev. Elam Potter and Sybil Pease Potter. The Rev. Elam Potter (1742-1794) preached in Enfield, Connecticut. Sybil Pease Potter (1754-1822) was the daughter of Capt. Ephraim Pease and Tabitha Abby. Some time after 1799, she married the widower Rev. Nathaniel Prudden, successor to the Rev. Elam Potter as minister in Enfield.

b. 2, f. 12 "Potter record": notes on Potter genealogy Covers the period from 1668 to 1865.

b. 2, f. 13 Notes on scriptures by the Rev. Elam Potter Very fragile handwritten notes on Bible passages, most undated.

b. 2, f. 14 “Extracts from Journal of the Rev. Elam Potter copied from the original manuscript”
It is unclear when these pencil copies were made and where the original journal is located. The one date included is 1766.

b. 2, f. 15 “Some circumstances of the sickness and death of the Rev. Elam Potter of Enfield Ct...” (copy?)
The Rev. Elam Potter died on Long Island January 5, 1794. This six-page handwritten account was possibly by Potter’s son, Elam O. Potter.

b. 2, f. 16 Letter of Sibyl Pease Potter to Elam O. Potter 1799, March 6

b. 2, f. 17 Two original sermons by the Rev. Nehemiah Prudden of Enfield 1796, 1808

b. 2, f. 18 “Pease record”/ Pease-Prudden family notes
The “Pease record,” possibly by William Tully, lists the immediate descendents of Captain Ephraim Pease (1720-1801) and includes epitaphs. The Pease-Prudden notes were “copied from Mrs. Prudden’s funeral sermon, Feb, 16th 1799” on the back of an 1899 calendar page.
