CALL NUMBER: GEN MSS 705

CREATOR: Wat, Aleksander, 1900-1967

TITLE: Aleksander Wat papers

DATES: 1915–1988

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION: 22.83 linear feet (48 boxes)

LANGUAGE: Materials in Polish, English, French and other languages.

SUMMARY: The papers document the life and writings of Aleksander Wat, from his early poetry in the 1910s to the posthumous publication of his work by his wife Paulina and by Czesław Miłosz. Early material (prior to the end of the Second World War) is sparse and consists chiefly of correspondence, personal documents and photographs. Among the early material is documentation of the Wat's exile in Kazakhstan. Later material includes numerous notebooks that contain drafts of poetry and prose writings, and the audio recordings that formed the basis for his memoir Mój wiek.

The papers are of interest not only to researchers studying Wat's creative process and the context of his life, but also twentieth-century Polish literature, the relationship of authors to Soviet society, and the postwar Eastern European émigré literary community in France. Wat's repeated arrests and exile are documented in his notebooks, in personal papers, and in material related to his memoirs. His relationship to the émigré circle centered around the monthly Kultura in France is documented in correspondence with Jerzy Giedroyc, Gustaw Herling-Grudziński, Konstanty Jeleński, and Zygmunt Hertz. The posthumous success of his writings is documented in Paulina Wat's Correspondence in Series I, and in posthumously-dated material in the Writings series, which chiefly relates to the editing, translating, and publishing work of Paulina Wat and Czesław Miłosz.

Aleksander Wat, 1900-1967

Aleksander Wat, poet, translator, critic, and co-founder of the Polish Futurism movement, was born Aleksander Chwat in 1900 in Warsaw, Poland. His early volumes of poetry include JA z jednej strony i JA z drugiej strony mego mopsożelaznego piecyka (ME from One Side and ME from the Other Side of My Pug Iron Stove, 1920) and Bezrobotny Lucyfer (Lucifer Unemployed, 1927). Wat's career was thwarted for decades during the Second World War and the Soviet era, as he was repeatedly imprisoned for political reasons and, with his wife Paulina (Ola Watowa) and son Andrzej, exiled to Kazakhstan. From the 1950s on, he suffered from a debilitating neurological illness (diagnosed as Wallenberg's syndrome) that also significantly impeded his writing. In 1959 he emigrated to France, where he lived until his suicide in 1967. In 1963-1964 he had a visiting appointment at the University of California, Berkeley, where he collaborated with Czesław Miłosz to record his memoirs. Wat continued to write prose and poetry in his later years. Much of this later writing was published posthumously, including Dziennik bez samogłosek (Diary Without Vowels) and Mój wiek (My Century), memoirs that recount his experience of twentieth-century Eastern European literary and political history.

Scope and Contents

The papers document the life and writings of Aleksander Wat, from his early poetry in the 1910s to the posthumous publication of his work by his wife Paulina (Ola Watowa) and by Czesław Miłosz. Early material (prior to the end of the Second World War) is sparse and consists chiefly of correspondence, personal documents and photographs. Among the early material is documentation of the Wat family's exile in Kazakhstan. Later material includes numerous notebooks that contain drafts of poetry and prose writings, and the audio recordings that formed the basis for Mój wiek. Two folders of lists and notes document the contents and organization of the material as it was received by the Beinecke Library are filed at the beginning of the collection.

The papers are of interest not only to researchers studying Wat's creative process and the context of his life, but also twentieth-century Polish literature, the relationship of authors to Soviet society, and the postwar Eastern European émigré literary community in France. Wat's repeated arrests and exile are documented in his notebooks, in personal papers, and in material related to his memoirs. His relationship to the émigré circle centered around the monthly Kultura in France is documented in correspondence with Jerzy Giedroyc, Gustaw Herling-Grudziński, Konstanty Jeleński, and Zygmunt Hertz. The posthumous success of his writings is documented in Paulina Wat's Correspondence in Series I, and in posthumously-dated material in the Writings series, which chiefly relates to the editing, translating, and publishing work of Paulina Wat and Czesław Miłosz.

Arrangement

Organized into five series: I. Correspondence, 1940-1985. II. Writings, 1942-1982. III. Personal Papers and Memorabilia, 1915-1985. IV. Writings of Others, 1921-1988. V. Printed Material, 1920-1978.

Series I. Correspondence*4.17 linear feet (10 boxes)*

The earliest correspondence (1940-1946) relates chiefly to the Wat family's exile in Kazakhstan. The bulk of the correspondence dates from the late 1950s to 1967 and documents Aleksander Wat's emigration, editorial work and publication projects. Other correspondence, such as that with Wat's sister Seweryna Broniszówna and other family members, is of a more personal nature. Correspondence after 1967, as well as the Paulina Wat Correspondence, is chiefly related to the posthumous publication of Aleksander Wat's work. Correspondence is incoming, unless otherwise noted.

Series I is organized into two subseries: Aleksander Wat Correspondence and Paulina Wat Correspondence. Material is arranged alphabetically in each subseries.

Series II. Writings*9.59 linear feet (24 boxes)*

Series II includes holograph and typescript drafts of Aleksander Wat's major publications, including the volumes of poetry, memoirs and collections of essays. Material also includes original audio recordings and transcripts for Wat's "oral memoir" Mój Wiek, which was edited and published posthumously by Czesław Miłosz and Paulina Wat. In addition to files on his major publications, writings include numerous notebooks, typescript drafts of essays, and loose holograph drafts of poems. Material dated after 1967 is related to the posthumous publication of Wat's work and some of the later material is transcribed by Paulina Wat. Many of the folders include notes by Paulina Wat and others.

Boxes 47-49 (audiovisual material): Restricted fragile. Reference copies may be requested. Consult Access Services for further information.

Series II is organized into five subseries: Major Works of Poetry and Prose, Poetry, Essays, Short Fiction and Playscripts, Memoirs, and Notebooks. The organization of material within each subseries roughly preserves the arrangement in which it was received by the Beinecke Library.
