Processing Information

Collections are processed to a variety of levels, depending on the work necessary to make them usable, their perceived research value, the availability of staff, competing priorities, and whether or not further accruals are expected. The library attempts to provide a basic level of preservation and access for all collections, and does more extensive processing of higher priority collections as time and resources permit.

These materials have been arranged and described according to national and local standards. For more information, please refer to the Beinecke Manuscript Unit Processing Manual.

Folders have been titled according to original titles given by J. Neilson Barry to individual maps and published articles. Supplied folder titles are bracketed.

Biographical / Historical

John Neilson Barry (1870-1961) of Wilmington, North Carolina, served as an Episcopal minister in Spokane, Washington; New York, New York; Washington, District of Columbia; and Baker, Oregon, from 1895 to 1913. From 1913 to 1922, Barry served as a probation officer with the police court in Spokane. He retired in 1922 and moved to Portland, Oregon, where he conducted historical research, focusing on maps of the Pacific Northwest and showing interest in John Colter, a member of the Lewis and Clark Expedition.
