Processing Information

Collections are processed to a variety of levels, depending on the work necessary to make them usable, their perceived research value, the availability of staff, competing priorities, and whether or not further accruals are expected. The library attempts to provide a basic level of preservation and access for all collections, and does more extensive processing of higher priority collections as time and resources permit.

These materials have been arranged and described according to national and local standards. For more information, please refer to the Beinecke Manuscript Unit Processing Manual.

Biographical / Historical

Alan Trachtenberg (1932-2020) was the Neil Gray Jr. Professor of English and professor emeritus of American Studies at Yale University. He graduated with a Bachelor of Arts in English from Temple University in 1954 and a Master of Arts in English from the University of Connecticut in 1956. He completed his Doctor of Philosophy in American Studies at the University of Minnesota in 1962.

From 1961 to 1970, Trachtenberg taught at the Pennsylvania State University. He was a fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences at Stanford University from 1968 to 1969. He joined the faculty at Yale in 1969. In the 1970s, he served two terms as the American Studies department's director of graduate studies and one as department chair. He had visiting professorships in Leningrad, Kyoto, and Doshisha Universities, as well as Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Rhode Island Institute of Technology, and Cooper Union. Trachtenberg retired in 2001.

Trachtenberg's book Reading American Photographs: Images as History, Mathew Brady to Walker Evans, a study of American Photography from 1839 to 1938 (1990) won the Charles C. Eldredge Prize for outstanding scholarship in the field of American art. His other works include Brooklyn Bridge: Fact and Symbol (1965), The Incorporation of America: Culture and Society in the Gilded Age (1982), and Lincoln's Smile and Other Enigmas (2007).

Alan Trachtenberg was married to Betty Trachtenberg (1933-2023), who served as Yale's Dean of Student Affairs from 1987 to 2007. The two had three children: Zev Trachtenberg, Elissa Trachtenberg, and Julie Trachtenberg.

Series III: Teaching Materials and Course Related Files, 1964–2013

Series III contains syllabi, exams, lecture notes, and research materials compiled and assembled by Alan Trachtenberg while teaching at Yale University.

The earliest materials in the series relate to courses at Pennsylvania State University. Material for courses at The City of New York Graduate School and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill are also present, as well as seminars and institutes sponsored by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Folder titles assigned by Alan Trachtenberg have been retained. Supplied titles for folders received without labels are in brackets. Names of host institutions are provided in parentheses when known.

Series III is arranged chronologically with unidentified material filed at the end.

Series IV: Correspondence, 1960–2017

Series IV contains letters addressed to Alan Trachtenberg. Among those appearing most frequently are Lakota author Ronald Goodman, poet and photographer James H. Hiner, filmmaker Jay Leyda, historian Leo Marx, poet Robert Mezey, and photographer Jerry L. Thompson.

Letters are professional, relating to the teaching, writing, and research of Trachtenberg and his peers, as well as personal.

Correspondence with American historian Lewis Mumford--originally grouped into one folder by Trachtenberg--is filed separately.

Series IV is arranged chronologically.
