Processing Information

Collections are processed to a variety of levels, depending on the work necessary to make them usable, their perceived research value, the availability of staff, competing priorities, and whether or not further accruals are expected. The library attempts to provide a basic level of preservation and access for all collections, and does more extensive processing of higher priority collections as time and resources permit.

Biographical / Historical

Phillip Taylor Young (1926-2002) was a naturalized Canadian musician, teacher, and the author of books on woodwind and reed instruments and other related topics. Born in Milton, Massachusetts, Young served in World War II before studying music at Bowdoin College and Yale University (M MUS 1962). He taught at the Yale School of Music, the Taft School, and the University of Victoria.
