Administrative Information

Immediate Source of Acquisition

Bequest of Wilmarth Sheldon Lewis (Yale 1918), 1979.

Custodial History

The bulk of the Lewis Walpole Library Portrait Print Collection was part of a much larger collection of prints purchased in New York by Joseph Verner Reed (1902-1973, Yale 1926) sometime after the death of print dealer Robert Fridenberg in 1946. Reed, a collector of fine prints, gifted the collection to the Yale University Library in 1958, where it was housed in various locations in Sterling Memorial Library. In 1960, some portions of the collection -- 18th-century English satires, prints related to Strawberry Hill and its collection, and portraits of members of the Strawberry Hill circle, for example -- were transferred to the Lewis Walpole and integrated into its collection. In 1992 the remainder of the bulk of the 1958 Reed collection was moved in file cabinets to an outbuilding in the Lewis Walpole Library, where Joan Sussler, curator of prints at the library, began mining the collection for images relevant to the Lewis Walpole Library. These prints were moved into the library's storage area where they remained mostly uncataloged and separated from the existing Lewis Walpole collection. The bulk of the prints not selected for the Lewis Walpole Library was returned to New Haven in 1999 to be accessioned by the Beinecke Library and eventually cataloged as The Robert Fridenberg Collection of Portrait and Topographical Prints (GEN MSS 1000); the finding aid for that collection has a more detailed history of this collection at Yale.

While the bulk of this collection is from the 1958 Reed gift, some other prints were interfiled by staff over the years from other sources (gifts from donors, purchases from various vendors such as the Suckling Company of London, the collection of Sir Jonathan Wathen Waller sold at Christie's auction house in July 1966, etc.), but this practice was not systematically applied nor very common. The source of acquisitions is written on the verso of most prints.

Processing Information

The portions of the Reed gift that were transferred to the Lewis Walpole Library in 1960 were first described using catalog cards and then beginning in 2003, cataloged individually in Yale's online catalog. However, the bulk that came in 1992 remained segregated and was referred to as the "Portraits Collection." Efforts were made to create catalog cards for some of these prints, but the majority were not described until 2013 when the largest prints, those not extracted from books and magazines, were cataloged individually in Yale's online catalog.

Beginning in 2022, Kristen McDonald began to rehouse the collection, maintaining the arrangement by the name of the sitter (Last name, First name) after verifying the authorized form of the name when found in the Library of Congress Name Authority file. Names not found in the Authority File were checked against other standard references sources, and the fullest form of the name found was used. Within each folder prints have been grouped by the sitter's pose, so multiple impressions and copies of prints are filed together. When the number of prints for a sitter required more than one folder, prints were grouped by the artist's name. For example, Walpole, Horace (1717-1797) has fourteen folders with subseries for the portrait prints after the paintings of Sir Joshua Reynolds, John Giles Eccardt, Sir Thomas Lawrence, etc. There was no attempt to weed the collection, so there are many impressions of the same prints in some folders and in others, there is a single print.

Separated Materials

To browse prints that were removed and cataloged separately, search in Yale's online catalog using a local call number search beginning "Portraits" or combine the search with the sitter's last name as a subject to determine the cutter number. For example, all portrait prints of Horace Walpole, can be browsed using the call number "Portraits W218".

Other prints from the Reed gift can be found in the online catalog by using an Advanced Search, limiting to location "Lewis Walpole Library" and "Reed" as a keyword.

Scope and Contents

The Lewis Walpole Library Portrait Prints Collection were selected based on their relevance to the Lewis Walpole Library which centers on Horace Walpole and his times, his house at Strawberry Hill in Twickenham, his interests, and his friends and contemporaries. More specifically, the prints that were chosen included: British personages who lived either prior to the eighteenth-century, during the century, or up to the death of the last Georgian monarchs in 1830. Foreign personages were included if they were mentioned by either Walpole and his circle or in the British Museum's Catalogue of Political and Personal Satires or its Catalogue of Engraved British Portraits. Figures represented, therefore represent a wide range of professions and classes of person, including royalty and nobility; political, religious, and military leaders; actors and actresses; clergymen and scientists; criminals and street performers, and any other persons famous or infamous in this period. There are also many John Kay satires and tête-à-têtes from popular magazines, that are also represented by other impressions described in Yale's online catalog.

Other prints included are topographical prints that depicted places where these personages were born, lived or are buried, or any parts of which are contained therein, such as monuments; prints showing historical scenes, including death scenes and executions, or actors and actresses in theatrical roles; prints showing coats of arms; battles on land and sea involving British forces, or other armed conflicts outside Great Britain that are referred to by Walpole or his contemporaries and which occurred in the same timeframe described for the portraits above.

The majority of the prints are from small format publications (octavo or quarto in size) but also included are portrait prints, frontispieces, and title pages from the collected works of an author or histories such as those for which George Vertue provided portrait prints. Some of the portraits appear within the body of the text, so these include the text on the page as well. The range of publications provides the sense of the scope of the collection: Gentleman's Magazine, Lady's Magazine, Wit's Magazine, European Magazine, Hogg's Weekly Instructor, Military Chronicle, Bell's Theatre, Literary Magazine and British Review, Literary and Fashionable Magazine, British Poets, Cooke's Edition of Select Poets, Universal Magazine, The Gospel Magazine, The Senator, Town and Country Magazine, Monthly Mirror, Military Panorama, Evangelical Magazine, Wonderful Magazine, New Christian's Magazine, Barlow's Continuation to Hume's England, Hibernia Magazine, Theological Magazine, Hervey's Naval History, Harrison's History of London, Wonderful Museum, The Spectator, Methodist Magazine, Pocket Magazine, Parliamentary Debates, Baptist Magazine,

New Monthly Magazine, Royal Magazine, New Spiritual Magazine, The Amusing Chronicle, Lady's Pocket Magazine, Mackenzie and Dent's Select Biography, Parson's Genuine Edition of Hume's England, Monthly Miscellany, Murray's History of the American War, Lottery Magazine, Walker's Hibernian Magazine, New London Magazine, Thespian Magazine, and Bellamy's Picturesque Magazine.

Most of the prints are etching and engravings, but there are also some small mezzotints, lithographs, aquatints, and mechanical prints. Color prints are noted when present.
