Scope and Contents

The Samuel Langhorne Clemens Collection provides insight into the life and career of Clemens, American author and lecturer best known by his pseudonym Mark Twain. The collection is comprised of correspondence, writings, contracts, scrapbooks, clippings, and printed material.

The collection contains drafts, research notes, printed versions, and contracts, which document Clemens' creative process and writing career. Autograph manuscripts can be found in the collection for The Gilded Age, My Debut as a Literary Person, Clemens' translation of Der Struwwelpeter into English, and A Tramp Abroad. Very few of Clemens' autograph manuscripts represent the entirety of a work; due to his popularity among collectors many of his manuscripts were divided and gifted or sold separately. As the collection illustrates, Clemens was deeply concerned with his intellectual property rights, as can be seen in his contracts with publishers and efforts to obtain passage of an international copyright law. Original illustrations for Puddn'head Wilson and A Tramp Abroad can also be found in the collection.

Correspondence with various authors and publishers, including the American Publishing Company, Elisha Bliss, Richard Watson Gilder, Annie Trumbull Slosson, and Joseph Hopkins Twichell, also shed light into Clemens' professional life. Much of the correspondence was removed from printed material. The collection also contains correspondence of collectors Willard Samuel Morse and Walter Francis Frear.

Clemens' celebrity status is evident in a number of items in the collection, such as autographs, a collection of "Some Finger Prints of Mark Twain, Frederic Remington, Joseph Jefferson, and Others," souvenir menus for dinners held in his honor, a bas relief of Clemens and George Cable, and blueprints for a plaque placed on the home where Clemens lived while residing in London, England.

Arrangement

Organized into four series: I. Correspondence, 1860-1980. II. Writings, 1870-1968. III. Other Papers, 1872-1960. IV. Artwork and Objects, 1877-1912.

Collection Contents

Series I: Correspondence, 1860-1962

2.3 linear feet (7 boxes)

The series documents Clemens' professional life and personal relationships. The majority of correspondence is comprised of outgoing letters, many removed from printed material in the Beinecke Library's collection, although the series does include some incoming correspondence.

Correspondents include authors and publishers, such as the American Publishing Company, Elisha Bliss, Richard Watson Gilder, Annie Trumbull Slosson, and Joseph Hopkins Twichell, which combined, offer insight into Clemens' literary circle.

The collection also contains third party correspondence and correspondence of collectors Willard S. Morse and Walter Francis Frear.

Series I is organized into four subseries: Mark Twain Correspondence, Third Party Correspondence, Willard Samuel Morse Correspondence, and Walter Francis Frear Correspondence.

Series II: Writings, 1870-1968*5.63 linear feet (15 boxes)*

The series documents Clemens's writing career from 1860 until his death in 1910, as well as the posthumous publication of his writings. Autograph manuscripts can be found in the collection for The Gilded Age, My Debut as a Literary Person, Clemens's translation of Der Struwwelpeter into English, and A Tramp Abroad. Materials relating to the illustration of Clemens's writing can also be found in the collection; this includes original drawings by C. H. Warren and F. M. Senior for Puddn'head Wilson and original illustrations, and prints on which the illustrations are based, for A Tramp Abroad. Contracts, agreements, and Clemens's notes on international copyright (located in Series IV, Other Papers), illustrate Clemens's interest in his intellectual property rights and the management of his literary estate.

The subseries Writings of Others contains a catalogue of Willard S. Morse's collection and scholarship on Clemens.

Series II is organized into three subseries: Writings by Mark Twain, Contracts and Agreements, and Writings of Others.
