Hunter received an honorable discharge on April 6, 1946, and returned to New Orleans. Thereafter, he became ill with dysentery and malaria. Scope and Contents

The papers consist of correspondence, topical files and photographs. Correspondence and topical files document David Hunter's attempts to prove that his post-war illnesses were service-related and to gain compensation. The photographs are of the Far East during World War II.

Arrangement

The papers are arranged in three series: Series I. Correspondence, 1942-1958. Series II. Topical Files, 1942-1958. Series III. Photographs, 1958, undated

Collection Contents

Series I: Correspondence, 1942-1958

Correspondence is arranged in two sections: "Family" and "Other." Within each section, letters are arranged chronologically. The "Family" section contains letters written by Hunter to his wife and son during his service in World War II. The letters reveal very little about the course of the war or Hunter's role in it. Hunter comments mainly on family matters and foreign culture and landscapes. The "Other" section primarily includes letters written by non-family members on behalf of Hunter in his attempt to gain compensation for his illnesses. Typically, the writers address the capacity in which they were familiar with Hunter and praise his character. Copies of Hunter's solicitations for such assistance are frequently attached.

Series II: Topical Files, 1942-1958, undated

This series is arranged alphabetically. Most materials relate to Hunter's medical problems and attempts to obtain compensation from the Red Cross, Social Security Administration and Veteran's Administration. The "Medical record" file is the most informative pertaining to his illnesses. "Military record" provides extensive biographical information. "Memos and directives" includes information on Hunter's military transfers and duties. "Prisoners of War, Siam" contains a draft by Hunter of a work that describes the American prisoners of war he evacuated from Siam in August, 1945.

Series III: Photographs, 1958, undated

Photographs are arranged in two sections: "Identified" and "Unidentified." Within these sections they are arranged alphabetically by topic. The majority are undated. They are comprised of black and white photographs, 2" x 3.5", 3" x 5", and 8" x 10". On the whole, the photographs are in good condition, but some have faded. A few of the 8" by 10" photographs are of superior quality. This is the most interesting series in the collection. It contains hundreds of photographs of the landscape, culture, indigenous peoples and American soldiers in the Far East during World War II.
