Biographical / Historical

Vincent Price was born in St. Louis, Missouri, on May 27, 1911. His father was president of the National Candy Company in St. Louis. Price received a B.A. in art history and English from Yale University in 1933, and studied art history at the University of London from 1934 to 1935. Price began his acting career in 1935 in a London stage production of Victoria Regina. He acted in Mercury Theatre productions (1937-1938), in Outward Bound (1939-1940), and in Angel Street (1941-1942). Price made his film debut in 1938 in Service de Luxe. He appeared in over one hundred films, achieving fame particularly in films of horror and suspense. In addition to his stage and film roles, Price performed on radio and television; authored several books; lectured on primitive and modern art; and served on committees and boards of arts organizations, including the Archives of American Art, U.S. Indian Arts and Crafts Board, the arts council of the University of California at Los Angeles, and the White House Fine Arts Commission. Price married three times: to Edith Barrett, Mary Grant, and Coral Browne. He had a son, Vincent Barrett Price, from his first marriage and a daughter, Victoria Price, from his second marriage. Price died in Los Angeles, California, on October 25, 1993.

Scope and Contents

The papers consist of correspondence, memorabilia, working scripts, writings, photographs, and published material relating to Vincent Price's acting career and activities as a supporter of the visual arts.

The bulk of the collection dates from the 1940s to the 1970s, although the scrapbooks contain a great deal of material from the 1930s as well. The papers are perhaps most valuable for the ephemera they contain relating to Price's theatrical and film career. There are rare fan magazines and a number of formal and informal photographs documenting all aspects of Price's career. There is also a large amount of material that provides background information on Vincent Price's public life, including scrapbooks, clippings from newspapers and magazines, and reviews of Price's performances. In addition there is good documentation on Price's interest in and involvement with the art world.

Arrangement

The papers are arranged in seven series and one addition: I. Correspondence, 1920s-1980s. II. Memorabilia, 1936-1980s. III. Publicity, 1950s-1980s. IV. Working Scripts, 1935-1990, n.d. V. Writings, 1932-1981, n.d. VI. Scrapbooks, 1910-1970s. VII. Photographs, 1890s-1980s.

Collection Contents

Series I: Correspondence, 1920s-1980s

The series is arranged alphabetically and primarily consists of incoming letters to Price from relatives, friends, and professional colleagues. Some of the files also include clippings and memorabilia. There are many letters from Price's friend Mildred Mary Combs, playwright Laurence Housman, and various family members, especially Price's parents and his son, Vicent Barrett Price. While Price's professional film and theater career is not well documented in the correspondence, there is material from his agent W. C. Leigh and his publisher Doubleday, as well as personal correspondence with many stage and screen personalities, including Jose Ferrer, Basil Rathbone, and Helen Hayes. Price's involvement in the art world is well documented in correspondence with various artists, particularly Howard Warshaw. There are also many documents pertaining to the founding of the Los Angeles County Art Museum, and correspondence with various art dealers and museum officials. Of interest are the correspondence, office memoranda, and other materials from Price's tenure on the Indian Arts and Crafts Board of the United States Department of the Interior, which detail the Board's activities from 1957 to 1961. Additionally, some correspondence can be found in the working scripts in Series IV: Working Scripts and the pages of the scrapbooks in Series VI.

Also included are some awards and certificates as well as materials from two advertising campaigns for consumer products on which Price worked. The items in this series are arranged by type. Series III: Publicity, 1950s-1980s

This series is divided into two sections: Clippings and Publications. The Clippings section, arranged alphabetically by subject, consists of excerpts from mostly United States newspapers and magazines, and ranges in date from the 1960s to the 1980s. This section provides a good overview of Vincent Price's public life. For basic biographical information about Vincent Price, the "General" and "Profiles and Interviews" folders are good resources. Theater reviews are well represented, especially for Diversions and Delights, Price's one-man show about Oscar Wilde. Price's career on the lecture circuit is documented in the "Art," "Lectures," and "Villains Still Pursue Me" folders. Other clippings pertaining to his acting career and his family can be found in Series VI: Scrapbooks. The Publications section dates from the 1950s to the 1980s and is arranged alphabetically by type. The section contains movie fan magazines, privately produced fanzines, catalogs of Price's art exhibits, and books and publications about Price's film career.

This series consists of Vincent Price's scrapbooks, containing news clippings, programs, invitations, letters, and photographs, and is divided into two sections, Theater and Other. Some of the scrapbooks were disassembled for preservation purposes. Separated material is now stored in folders with each volume. Price's theater career is well documented here, especially his appearances in Victoria Regina and Diversions and Delights. There is also genealogical and biographical material for the Price family. Similar materials can be found in Series II: Memorabilia and in the "Clippings" section of Series III: Publicity.

Series VII: Photographs, 1890s-1980s

The Photographs series consists of photographs pertaining to Vincent Price's family, professional career, art collecting, and personal life. This collection of images sheds light on Price's personality and range of interests. The series has been divided into three sections: Vincent Price, Other individuals, and Oversize. Oversize pictures are arranged in the same order as the first two sections.

The Vincent Price section is arranged in several categories: Art collection; Portraits; Candid; Film; Interviews, speeches, public appearances; Radio; Television; and Theater. The "Portraits" files include formal posed photographs of Price, many made for promotional purposes as Price pursued his acting career. "Candid" are informal photographs showing Price's lighter, more casual side. The other categories document Price's work in various productions. Price's "Film" work is represented by promotional shots and film stills. Those films with an extensive number of pictures include The Abominable Dr. Phibes, House of Usher, and The Long Night. The "Theater" folders do not cover as wide a spectrum of productions as do those for his films, but they do detail Price's performances in Oliver!, Diversions and Delights, Victoria Regina, and Shoemaker's Holiday. Some examples of Price's work in other media are included in the "Radio" and "Television" folders.

The Other individuals section includes photographs of Price's first and third wives, Edith Barrett and Coral Browne, and of several generations of the Price family of St. Louis. The "Price Family" folders feature pictures of all sizes, ages, and subjects--from cartes de visite of Price ancestors to color prints of Price's daughter, Mary Victoria. There are a number of images that document Price's childhood in St. Louis and his student days at Yale. Also in this series are several pictures of Price's colleagues in film and the theater.
