Biographical / Historical

Joseph Warren Platner was born on June 18, 1919, in Baltimore, Maryland. After graduating from Cornell in 1941, he worked in the architecture offices of both I. M. Pei and Eero Saarinen. After Saarinen's death, Platner continued to work as head of interior design for Kevin Roche John Dinkeloo and Associates, collaborating most significantly on the Ford Foundation headquarters building in New York. In 1955, he was awarded the Rome Prize for architecture. Platner opened his own firm, Platner Associates, in New Haven in the late 1960s, and is known best for his line of furniture designed for Knoll, his interiors for Water Tower Place in Chicago and Windows on the World in New York, and renovations of the Yale Club and the Pan Am/MetLife Building, also in New York. He was inducted into the Interior Design Magazine Hall of Fame in 1985. Platner died on April 20, 2006, in New Haven, Connecticut.
