CALL NUMBER: MS 2042

CREATOR: Hansen, Bert, 1944-

TITLE: Bert Hansen papers

DATES: 1838–2019

BULK DATES: 1970–2009

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION: 14.33 linear feet (36 containers)

LANGUAGE: The material is in English and French.

SUMMARY: The papers document the work and research interests of academic and activist Bert Hansen. The original accession is divided into three categories, AIDS Committee of Toronto (ACT) records, newspaper clippings, and subject files, followed by three subsequent accessions consisting of subject files and additional files. The AIDS Committee of Toronto records consist of administrative files related to operations of the group, board and committee related minutes, agendas, and correspondence, and printed ephemera. These files date from 1983 to 1984. Newspaper and magazine clippings are generally focused on the AIDS epidemic in Canada and the United States, starting from the early period of the epidemic in 1982 until 1996. Some of the aspects of the epidemic that these clippings document include activism in the gay and lesbian community, medical research, human interest stories about people living with AIDS, and discrimination against people with AIDS. There are also a small number of clippings on other topics, such as discrimination within and towards the gay community, visibility of gay men and lesbians in media and history, and anti-pornography activism. The bulk of these date from 1980 to 1984. Subject files date from 1838 to 1996, though the bulk of the materials date from 1970-1996. They consist of materials pertaining to Bert Hansen's research on lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) activism, medical history and academia, and the intersection of both fields. Topics covered in the subject files include the history of the gay rights movement, sociology and sexuality, and portrayals of the gay and lesbian community in the media. Additionally, these subject files contain testimonials of and clippings documenting discrimination against members of the gay and lesbian community. Two additions consist of files on Hansen's life, work, and research interests, particularly his research on women in medicine; biology and sexual orientation; medical history in advertising; gay and feminist culture and history; and the history of AIDS. One of the additions also documents his work with an academic center at the City University of New York (CUNY) and contains his personal medical files.

Biographical / Historical

Bert Hansen

Bert Hansen was born on February 5, 1944 in Chicago, Illinois. He received his bachelor's degree in chemistry from Columbia College in 1965 and earned his doctorate in the history of science from Princeton University in 1974. Hansen received a Mellon Fellowship at Harvard University in 1978 and taught medical history courses there until 1979. His academic work focuses on the history of medicine and the history of science, such as the relationship of magic and science in the Middle Ages and the medicalization of homosexuality. Hansen held academic appointments in multiple institutions including Binghamton, State University of New York, the University of Toronto, New York University, and Baruch College, City University of New York. In 1973, Hansen and several other colleagues founded the Gay Academic Union, an organization which brought together gay and lesbian and allied academics across the country. He was also a founding member of the AIDS Committee of Toronto (ACT) and served as their first chair in 1983. Hansen worked with ACT from 1983 to 1984 and returned to the United States in 1985.

Hansen's publications include a 2009 book entitled Picturing Medical Progress from Pasteur to Polio: A History of Mass Media Images and Popular Attitudes in America and his doctoral dissertation: Nicole Oresme and the Marvels of Nature: A Study of His De Causis Mirabilium. In 2015, Hansen retired from Baruch College. He continues to present at academic conferences across the country, and his current research projects include the American Pasteur Institutes, nineteenth century homosexuality in New York City, and gay and lesbian scientists.

AIDS Committee of Toronto

The AIDS Committee of Toronto (ACT) was founded in 1983. The first Canadian organization of its kind, the ACT has its roots in a public health forum on AIDS and Hepatitis B held on April 5, 1983 at the Hassle Free Clinic in Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Some of the people who participated decided to form an "ongoing AIDS committee." On July 19, 1983 the Toronto AIDS Committee held their first press conference to announce their organization and their work. They changed their name to the AIDS Committee of Toronto soon after. Their services have two major focuses: supporting people living with HIV and AIDS, and educating the community at large in Toronto on HIV and AIDS, especially the lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) community. ACT projects that support people living with HIV and AIDS include counseling, social events, meals, support groups, and programs that provide job training and placement. Educational programming includes substance abuse counselling, community health forums, and outreach activities at bars, night clubs, festivals, bath houses, and online.

Scope and Contents

The papers document the work and research interests of academic and activist Bert Hansen. The original accession of material is divided into three categories: Hansen correspondence with Susan Chambré, AIDS Committee of Toronto (ACT) records, and newspaper clippings. There are also three additional accessions: one consisting of subject files, and two consisting of additional files.

The AIDS Committee of Toronto (ACT) records consist of administrative files related to operations of the group, board and committee-related minutes, agendas, and correspondence, and printed ephemera. The ACT records include source materials from different advocacy groups and reports on the Gay Men's Health Crisis's model of activism and work with AIDS patients. These materials mainly date from 1983 to 1984, the length of Hansen's involvement with ACT.

Newspaper and magazine clippings are generally focused on the AIDS epidemic in Canada and the United States, starting from the early period of the epidemic in 1982 until 1996. Some of the aspects of the epidemic that these clippings document include activism in the gay and lesbian community, medical research, human interest stories about people living with AIDS, and discrimination against AIDS patients. There are also a small number of clippings on other topics, such as discrimination within and towards the gay community, visibility of gay men and lesbians in media and history, and anti-pornography activism. The bulk of these date from 1980 to 1984.

Subject files, dated from 1838 to 1996, bulk 1970-1996, consists of materials pertaining to Bert Hansen's research on lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) activism, medical history and academia, and the intersection of both fields. It includes magazines, news clippings, annotated research papers, conference schedules, correspondence, academic journals, and informational pamphlets. Topics covered in the subject files include the history of the gay rights movement, sociology and sexuality, and portrayals of the gay community in the media. Additionally, these subject files contain personal testimonials of and news clippings documenting discrimination against members of the gay and lesbian community.

Additional material includes two accessions. Series Accession 2020-M-0012, dated from 1955 to 2019, documents Bert Hansen's work and research interests, particularly his research on women in medicine, biology and sexual orientation, and medical history in advertising; his work with an academic center at the City University of New York (CUNY); and his compilation of organizational newsletters and publications pertaining to gay and feminist culture and history. The accession also includes Hansen's personal medical files from 1994 through 2015.

Series Accession 2021-M-0011, dating from 1978 to 1996, contains files relating to the history of AIDS, records of Hansen's research for an exhibition called "Epidemics in New York City History," held at the Museum of the City of New York, and two videocassette recordings of an interview with Bert Hansen held on The Morning Show in Binghamton, New York.

Arrangement

The original accession material is arranged under the following headings: Hansen correspondence with Susan Chambré, AIDS Committee of Toronto (ACT) files, and Newspaper clippings. There is one accession consisting of subject files, and two accessions of additional files.

Accession 2018-M-0032: Subject files, 1838-1996, 1970-1996

This accession contains Bert Hansen's subject files on various topics related to his research on the LGBT community. The bulk of the materials date from 1970 to 1996. They include magazines, news clippings, annotated research papers, conference schedules, and informational pamphlets. Lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) organizations represented include the Lesbian Herstory Archives, the Committee on Lesbian and Gay History of the American Historical Association (CLGH-AHA), the National Gay Task Force (NGTF), and Senior Action in a Gay Environment (SAGE). Many of the subject files also contain materials related to various medical and academic organizations, including The Journal of Psychology, as well as the Sex Information and Education Council of the United States (SIECUS). Others focus on the intersection between both communities; examples of these organizations include the Gay Academic Union and the Center for Homosexual Education, Evaluation, and Research (CHEER).

Several folders contain substantive correspondence which helps track the growth and development of Hansen's research on the LGBT community. Notable materials in this accession include nine of the earliest issues of RFD, the publication of the Radical Faeries, booklets and pamphlets celebrating gay pride events in New York City, and news clippings and letters written to Hansen by members of the LGBT community which detail acts of discrimination such as raids on gay night clubs, questionable arrests, and personal testimonials of harassment. This series also includes a pin from the Christopher Street Festival Committee, the festival celebrating LGBT activism and the gay pride movement in New York City. The earliest item in the collection is an affectionate 1838 letter written by Homer Sears of Ashford, Connecticut, to his colleague, Master Franklin, in Springfield, Massachusetts. Hansen's accompanying notes and correspondence within the file speculate as to the nature of the relationship between the two men.

Subject files under this heading are arranged alphabetically by subject. General news clippings are filed first, with specific subject files organized alphabetically immediately following.

b. 1, f. 1-10	General Folder one contains a letter from the group "Gays Against the Movie Cruising" expressing their disdain for the portrayal of gay characters, which "perpetuates all the oppressive stereotypes against gay men, and firmly links homosexuality with violence and death." It also contains a letter to Bert Hansen from a colleague discussing dropout rates among gay students and the initiative to set up scholarships on behalf of these students. Folder two contains a 1974 letter from Bert Hansen to the editor of The Village Voice, which failed to report on a gay pride march in New York City. Hansen called the lack of coverage "offensive and revealing of a deep anti-gay bias." Folder seven contains correspondence between Bert Hansen and Guillaume Marche, discussing interviews for a research project on the sociology of gay identity and the gay movement in the age of AIDS, comparing San Francisco and New York City.	Circa 1970-circa 1996

Bellagio conference

These files contain material relating to the Bellagio conference on Gender, Technology and Education, held at the Rockefeller Foundation Center in Bellagio, Italy in 1985. At this conference, Bert Hansen presented a paper entitled Women's Participation in Medicine: An Historical Overview. Ideas from this presentation were further developed in his papers Gender and Change in the American Medical Profession and Women's Struggle for a Place in American Medicine.

Although most of the presented works were later published in the associated journal Daedalus, Bert Hansen's paper was rejected by the editors of that volume and never appeared in print. Aside from the specific subject of gender and medicine as analyzed in the 1980s, researchers will be able to trace herein the progression from invitation, drafts of a paper, revisions after the conference, reactions from the editors, and finally rejection of a scholarly project.

Accession 2021-M-0011: Additional material, 1978–1996

This accession contains files relating to efforts, begun in 1988, by the Museum of the City of New York to create an exhibit and a book on the history of epidemics in New York City. Hansen was directly involved in both efforts. The book was published eventually, and the exhibit was not shown. The accession also includes materials documenting a movement in the late 1980s for academic fields (in Hansen's case history), to take responsibility for bringing the then-new AIDS epidemic into their purview. Hansen organized the first panel on AIDS at the American Historical Association. Also included is a U-matic tape of a recording of Hansen interviewed for Binghamton, New York local television in 1978, along with a VHS tape.

The material is arranged under three headings: AIDS and history; Museum of the City of New York, "Epidemics in New York City History;" and Audiovisual material. Files under each heading are arranged alphabetically with the exception of two groupings, which are arranged chronologically: a group of files relating to National Institute of Health conferences (under AIDS and history), and Chronological files (under Museum of the City of New York, "Epidemics in New York City History").

	AIDS and history	1986–1993
	This grouping contains files about historians and AIDS. The materials document efforts by academic historians of medicine to initiate the consideration of AIDS in history when the epidemic was in its early stages.
