CALL NUMBER: GEN MSS 110

TITLE: Italian castle archive

DATES: circa 1550-1848

BULK DATES: 1600-1750

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION: 17 linear feet (117 boxes - 106 volumes)

LANGUAGE: Italian

SUMMARY: The collection contains over 2,000 short manuscripts and printed documents including news bulletins, diplomatic reports, histories, letters, scholarly and practical treatises, legal records, broadsides, genealogies, sermons and orations, plays, and poems. It is especially rich in material concerning the diplomatic role of the Papal States during the War of the Spanish Succession; reports on papal conclaves, instructions to nuncios, and letters from the College of Cardinals; and items pertaining to Ancona, Naples, and the D'Aste family. Other well-documented individuals and events include Innocent X; Olimpia Maidalchini-Pamphili; Queen Christina of Sweden; Cardinal Mazarin; Louis XIV; controversies concerning the Jesuits; the siege of Vienna in 1683 and the 1701 revolt against the Spanish crown in Naples; natural disasters; and the extension of papal authority. In addition, the collection also contains a number of treatises, including works on alchemy, astronomy, cartography, military science, numerology, law, philosophy, and rhetoric, as well as an eight volume edition of the works of the physicist Paretus, and numerous satires on prominent individuals.

Scope and Contents

This collection consists of 106 volumes, dating from c. 1550 to 1770 (with one volume containing items from as late as 1848). Five numbers in the sequence (10, 23, 59, 69, and 77) are missing, and two additional numbers (50a and 98a) have been added. Seven numbers are multi-volume sets. The collection totals 119 volumes in all. Most of the volumes are collections of short manuscripts and printed documents pertaining to a variety of topics. Over 2,000 items are present, about 1,550 in manuscript and roughly 500 in print. All of the documents are on paper and are bound in contemporary vellum. While most of the manuscript documents are written in an italic cursive, a few examples of broad humanist script are present in the collection. A fair number of engravings, woodcuts, ink drawings, and watercolors supplement the text documents.

The entire Italian Castle Archive was donated to Yale by H. P. Kraus, with the exception of volume 98a, which was purchased from Kraus in 1991. The earlier provenance of the Archive is unknown, although the frequent mention of Naples and the D'Aste family leads one to believe that the compilation of the Archive was completed in Southern Italy in the mid to late eighteenth century. Supporting this claim are frequent references to Ancona (where Cardinal Marcello D'Aste was Archbishop in the early 18th century) and Switzerland (where Marcello D'Aste served as Papal Nuncio from 1692-1695). Another member of the family, Donato Antonio D'Aste (d. 1743), was a famous legal scholar who resided in Naples. However, the wide array of documents and the lack of clear early provenance leave the origin of the Archive a mystery. Most of the documents in the collection are from Italy, with a small percentage coming from Spain, France, and the Empire. A vast majority of the items are in Italian and Latin with a few documents in Spanish and French also present. A large number of early printed documents and broadsides may be found in the collection, many of them from the Stamperia Reverendae Camerae Apostolicae. Of the manuscript items, there are some original autograph documents (most notably one of Pope Clement XI, Vol. 29, No. 33a), but most are contemporary copies. Among formal treatises and histories are many letters, news bulletins, and diplomatic reports. There are also a fair number of plays and poems on various topics.

The collection is especially rich in primary source material for the era of the War of Spanish Succession (1700-1713), especially in regards to the role of the Papacy and the Italian peninsula in that conflict. Several volumes contain detailed reports from Papal Conclaves, demonstrating the process by which new Popes were elected from the late Middle Ages to the eighteenth century. There are many sets of instructions to Papal Nuncios, providing an interesting glimpse into the diplomatic relations between the Apostolic See and France, Spain, Portugal, Switzerland, Poland, Flanders, the Austrian Empire, and the various states of Italy.

Series of documents within the collection provide sources and background for a number of influential individuals from the period: Cardinal Mazarin; Queen Christina of Sweden; Olimpia Maidalchini-Pamphili, sister-in-law to Pope Innocent X; King Philip V of Spain; Pope Clement XI; and King Louis XIV of France. Many letters from the Sacred College of the Cardinals provide insight into the politics which surrounded the Papacy in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. Certain events are also well-documented within the collection: the readmission of the Jesuits into Venice; the controversy over Jesuit missionaries in China; the 1701 revolt of Naples against the Spanish crown; the 1683 defeat of the Turks at Vienna; various tensions between Pope Alexander VII and the French King Louis XIV; the decline of the De'Medici family of Tuscany; a confrontation between Jesuits and Dominicans at the University of Douai (Flanders) in 1591; and the emergence of the Duchy of Savoy as a player in world politics.

A number of scholarly and practical treatises on a wide variety of topics exist in the collection. These include ones on numerology, alchemy, astronomy, military science, cartography, rhetoric, philosophy, Aristotle, law, history, varnish-making, and equine medicine. There are two student notebooks on the subject of rhetoric, one from the Jesuit College of Rome. Specific histories are given for the cities of Venice, Pisa, Genoa, and Florence, and for the Roman Church. The collection contains an eight volume edition of the works of Paretus, who wrote works on physics soon after Newton, which contain anatomical drawings and a plan for a flying machine. Also present is a 1548 edition of Ptolemy with maps of the Americas added by the editor Giuseppe Moletto.

Other items of note in the collection include:

- Reports and poems about natural disasters such as earthquakes, hailstorms, and a 1660 eruption of Mt. Vesuvio.
- Various treatises and broadsides in support of and against the extension and preservation of Papal authority.
- Poems on subjects which range from the elegaic to the scatological.
- Numerous satires--in drama, mock-epic, and verse--of prominent individuals of the period.
- An entrance examination to a Jesuit's German and Hungarian College in Rome.
- Several documents and engravings concerning drama and specific theaters in Rome.
- Watercolor paintings of plans for a fireworks display in Ferrara and of the Battle of Chiari (1701).
- A dictionary of legal terms.
- Records of legal proceedings for several cases of murder, heresy, and conspiracy, plus several records of duels, assassinations, and executions.
- Administrative documents of several Nuncios and parish churches.
- Several family histories and genealogical charts.
- Numerous sermons and orations.
- Several reports on Constantinople and accounts of relations with the Ottoman Empire.
- A prayer for lawyers, asking for more arguments and lawsuits.

b. 3, f. 1	Li modi di leggere la zifra . Treatise in Italian on cabalistic numerology. 18 leaves.
b. 3, f. 2	Oraculus Cabalisticus . Table of letters and numbers from which to calculate the election of Pope Innocent X (1644-1655). Table of 1 page.
b. 3, f. 3	De ludo numerorum . 65 leaves, 1 p. Treatise in Latin on numerology; contains among others chapters and tables on Alphabetum essentiale-Alphabetum accidentale ; Extensio Numerorum ascendentes-... descendentes ; Proportiones quam Improportiones ; Modus de habendis numeris... , etc.
b. 3, f. 4	De cuspidibus de Horoscopo . Treatise in Latin on the significance of the Zodiac signs. Table and 9 leaves.
b. 3, f. 5	Ludus Numerorum . Treatise in Latin on numerology, with cabalistic and astrological implications. Chapters I-IV. 10 leaves. 8vo.
b. 3, f. 6	(Numerological Tables). Folio folded to 4to.
b. 3, f. 7	Papiniano da Villanova . Libro della Geomantia. An Italian treatise on divination. The author could not be identified by Thorndike (vol. IV, p. 473), who places him in the 16th century and locates one manuscript of this treatise in the Vatican Library (Vatic. Reg. Suev. 1319). It was apparently never printed. 156 leaves.

COLLECTION OF POEMS

59 manuscripts on 226 leaves. Folio. Contemporary vellum. Italy, 17th and 18th centuries.

b. 4, f. 1	Istruzione Per La Vita Civile di un Giovane Nobile . 17 leaves. Didactic Italian poem in blank verse, giving instructions for the conduct of life to a young nobleman.
b. 4, f. 2	Nappini, Bartolomeo (called Polipodio Calabro) . 24 poems, 20 leaves, (foliated 18-37). Poems by the Calabrian poet Bartolomeo Nappini (d. 1717), who wrote under the pseudonym Polipodio Calabro, consisting of 20 sonnets, 2 elegies, 1 poem (in praise of the pig) in tercets, and one satirical poem. The poems are done in the "stile pedantesco," also known as the "stile fidenziano," which forces the pedantic Latin jargon of schoolmasters upon the Italian language. The last edition of Nappini's poems came out at Guastalla in 1780 and it is a bibliographical rarity.
b. 4, f. 3	Il Dottor Boccaleone Consola Valerio Notaro esser gli morta la Moglie & Figli . 7 leaves, numbered ff. 38-44. Italian canzone of 37 octave stanzas, possibly also by Bartolomeo Nappini.
b. 4, f. 4	(Consiglio dell'Oracolo in Prendere Moglier) . 1 page (f. 45). A humorous oracle as guidance in selecting a wife.
b. 4, f. 5	Regali Lasciati ad un Amico nella Partenza . 10 leaves, numbered ff. 46-55. Parting from Rome, the (anonymous) author describes in humorous verses the presents he leaves behind for a friend, a theme reminiscent of Francois Villon's Grand Testament .
b. 4, f. 6	L'Ignoranza Escaldada.--Racconto (se che fece un grazioso Pittore) . 2 leaves, numbered ff. 56-57. Two canzone, extolling ignorance; a rough paraphrase from the prophet Habakkuk.
b. 4, f. 7	Fortuna e Fato . 2 leaves, numbered ff. 58-59. Two sonnets and several poems on the subject of fortune and fate; includes excerpts from Matteo Bojardo, G.B. Guarini, and an epigram by Ausonius.
b. 4, f. 8	Fugacita dell Vita Umana . 3 pages, numbered ff. 60-61. Poem in rhymed quartets on the fleetingness of human life.
b. 4, f. 9	De Sogni . 2 pages, numbered ff. 62. A poem on dreams, in blank verse ("Verso sciolto").
b. 4, f. 10	Chocolata.--Della Chocolata.--Colmenero de Ledesma, Antonio . 13 leaves, numbered ff. 64-67. Two early poems on chocolate, one in Latin, the other in Italian. At the end is an excerpt from the first Italian edition of Colmenero's treatise on chocolate (1667; Palau 56907). Colmenero da Ledesma, a Spanish physician, was the first to write a monograph (1631) on chocolate, the drink made from cocoa beans that had come to Europe from Mexico. Only in the early part of the 18th century did chocolate become a fashionable beverage in Europe.
b. 4, f. 11	Le Vignate . 11 leaves, numbered ff. 77-87. Italian poem in Anacreontic verse on the delight of autumn in the countryside.
b. 4, f. 12	Volpe, Conte della . All'Eminentissimo Principe Il Signor Cardinal Conti per la Nascita del secondo Nipote. 1 page, numbered ff. 88. The poem to Cardinal Conti is signed Cleogene Naffio, the name given to Volpe as a member of the Academy Arcadia. It is dated Rome, 1729. This Conte della Volpe seems not to be one of the famous brothers Volpe who were active in Padua at this time and established the Tipographia Volpi-Cominiano.
b. 4, f. 13	Copia del Memoriale dato a Il Sig. Papa Clemente XII. Corsini . 3 leaves, numbered ff. 89-91. Copy of a memorandum, in the form of a poem in tercets, to Pope Clement XII (1730-1740).
b. 4, f. 14	In Lode del Porco. (In Lode del Prosciutto) . 9 pages, numbered ff. 92-96. A poem in Anacreontic style in praise of a pig (8 pages), followed by a sonnet on a delicious ham.

b. 4, f. 15	L'Imperator Carlo V fa pigliare un Faccino . 3 leaves, numbered ff. 97-98. A satirical canzone on the Emperor Charles V who was put to shame by the sense of justice of a drunken porter whom he had brought to the royal palace.
b. 4, f. 16	Sonetto Peripatetica . - Enigma Paripatetica . 2 pages, numbered ff. 100. Two "peripatetic" sonnets in the grotesque style of Burchellio (1400-1449).
b. 4, f. 17	A Monsignor...de Brevi, che promise cert'assagio di vini precosi . 6 leaves, numbered ff. 101-105. A canzone in praise of wine, with the refrain "Monsignor quel vino aspetto," dedicated to a Monsignor de Brevi who had promised the author to let him taste precious wines. On the last page is a drinking song of wandering students (goliards).
b. 4, f. 18	Bella Dona richiede ad un Cacciatore, un Augellino, ed egli cosi risponde . - La Corte . - Grazioissima risoluzione, 1690 . - Ad un Marchese che portova la Carozza con certi Cavalli . - Epitaffio alla Sepoltura del Colangeli . 5 pages, numbered ff. 106-108. 5 sonnets in a burlesque style, reminiscent of Berni, on various events and persons in Rome.
b. 4, f. 19	Gloria, et Honore...della Santita di Nostro Sig. Papa Clemente XI, Anno 1714 . 1 page (f. 108 verso). Sonnet in praise of Pope Clement XI (1700-1721).
b. 4, f. 20	Al Serenissimo Eugenio di Savoia per La Disfatta de Turchi in Ungheria li 5 Agosto 1716 . 2 pages, (f. 109). Two sonnets in praise of Prince Eugene of Savoy and his victory over the Turks. By Don Angelo Ricci (?).
b. 4, f. 21	Capitolo della Zappa . 4 leaves, numbered ff. 110-113. A burlesque poem in tercets on the hoe; in imitation of the style of Berni.
b. 4, f. 22	All'Indiscretezza del Padre Ciceri . 4 leaves, numbered ff. 110-113. A burlesque poem in tercets ("capitolo"), ridiculing a friar, dated 1712.
b. 4, f. 23	Ringraziamento per 4 Fiaschi di Vino . - per dieci Fiaschi di Vino . -(Una Giavane si Lamenta...un marito troppo vecchio). - All Abbati Montani...Un Cane rubba certa carne di mano . - Impostura all'autore . 3 leaves, numbered ff. 118-120. Six humorous sonnets; thanking for bottles of wine; an 18 year old girl married to a 67 year old husband (referring to a "true story" of 1744), etc.
b. 4, f. 24	La Birba . - Dorme Spensierato . - Amante che scuopre L'Amore alla sua Donna . - Notturna Serenata . 7 leaves, numbered ff. 121-127. Three popular songs and one sonnet. The song La Birba (The Scoundrel) has a choral refrain "Eviva La Birba e Chi L'invento"; the two other songs are sung after the same melody as La Birba . The texts only are given. The sonnet is reminiscent and seems to anticipate the style of Guiseppe Belli (1791-1863), the greatest poet in Roman dialect.
b. 4, f. 25	Alli Virtuosi Tabbacanti . 2-1/2 pages, numbered ff. 128-129. One sonnet, "scherzo Poetico," and epigrams in Latin, Spanish, and Italian on tobacco and taking snuff.
b. 4, f. 26	Consiglio ad un Amico . 1 page (fol. 129 verso). A sonnet, based on a quotation from Cicero, advising to consult the wisdom of the past.
b. 4, f. 27	Sogno, accaduto nel Mese di Luglio 1746 . 28 leaves, numbered ff. 130-157. A long poem of a dream. At the end a note stating that this poem is "un Compendio Teorico della Guerre di 10 Anni."
b. 4, f. 28	El Genio Romanesco . - In Laude Nicolai Salvii . 2 pages, numbered ff. 158. Italian sonnet and a Latin poem in praise of the architect Nicola Salvi, creator of the Fontana di Trevi. Both poems are dated 1744. Salvi's fountain, begun in 1732, was finished only in 1762. The style of the sonnet is similar to that of the great poet in Roman dialect, G.G. Belli.
b. 4, f. 29	Sopra ad un Podagroso . - Rimedio per guerir La Podagra . 5 pages, numbered ff. 159-161. Two humorous poems on gout; a canzone, with the refrain "Simonelli ha la Podagra," and a sonnet on the cure of the gout.

b. 4, f. 30	Procura trovare un'Innamorata . 1 page (f. 161 verso). A sonnet on the difficulty of finding a sweetheart to one's taste.
b. 4, f. 31	De Ducenda Uxore . 2 pages (f. 162). Two satirical poems on marriage; Latin distychs in the style of Ovid and the Italian sonnet.
b. 4, f. 32	Ottave giocose Sopra Le Moroide . - Rimedio per Le Moroide, La Vendetta . 8-1/2 pages, numbered ff. 163-167. Humorous poems on hemorrhoids and their cure, the latter referring to Simone Maiolo's Dies Caniculares .
b. 4, f. 33	La Forza del Destino . 1 page (f. 167 verso). A sonnet.
b. 4, f. 34	La Vendemia . 5 pages, numbered ff. 168-170. A long poem (text for a song) on vintage time, with the choral refrain "Alla Mozza Donne belle."
b. 4, f. 35	Consiglio agli Ammogliati . 1 page (f. 170 verso). A sonnet of advice to married people.

LETTERS AND DOCUMENTS

30 manuscript letters and documents, comprising 442

pages, numbered ff. 1-211 with a 4 page index. Folio. Contemporary limp vellum. Italy, 17th century.

b. 5, f. 1	Index. 2 leaves.
b. 5, f. 2	Il Mercurio Postiglione da Quest'all'altro Mondo. 61 leaves, numbered ff. 1-60. A political satire in dialogue form. The interlocutors are Mercury, Mars, Juppiter, and Momus. Mercury, fictitious postman from Heaven, brings letters from Earth which receive biting comments from the gods. The tendency is anti-Spanish, very much in the tone of Tranio Boccalini's Ragguagli di Parnaso (1612). The Mercurio postiglione was composed shortly after the victory of the Venetians over the Turkish fleet at Candia, in 1648. A work with the same title was published in 1667 in Vill-Franca by Claudio del Monte. The present ms. includes attacks against the Catholic Church, the Jesuits, and (on leaf 19 recto) against Queen Christina of Sweeden who is accused of choosing religion or heresy according to her convenience. On leaves 31-32 is a purported letter to Louis XIV by a former mistress, supplanted by a rival, MMe. Lavalliere; on leaves 40-41, a machiavellian analysis of the Wentworth, first earl of Stratford (leaves 52-54); Mazarin to the Queen Mother of France (leaves 56-59) and comments on them (leaves 54 verso, 55 recto and verso, 59 verso, and 69 recto).
b. 5, f. 3	Relatione della Vita del Cardinal Mazzarino . 57 leaves, numbered ff. 65-121. An account of the life of the Cardinal Mazarin, with special emphasis on his youth, interspersed with interesting anecdotes, little known biographical details, etc., evidently written by someone who was acquainted with the Cardinal. Onleaf is an excellent summary of highlights of Mazarin's career.
b. 5, f. 4	Mazzarino, Giulio . Testamento del Sig. Cardin. Mazzarino. 22 leaves, numbered ff. 124-145. The will as set up in different stages between March 3 and 8, previous to Mazarin's death on March 9, 1661. The Bib. Nazionale has 7 printed editions of the will, all published in 1663.
b. 5, f. 5	Ferdinand II of Hapsburg . Espozitione fatta in Collegio Veneto dal Residente Cesareo. -Risposta parte letta in Collegio al Residente Cesareo. Together 2 leaves, numbered ff. 146-147. A report, dated June 10, 1630, made to the Governing Board of the Republic of Venice by the diplomatic representative of the German Emperor, Ferdinand II, in regard to damage resulting from raids made by Imperial troops in Venetian territory. The report is followed by a reply from the Venetian government, dated June 12, 1630.
b. 5, f. 6	Readmission of the Jesuits into Venetian Territory. Six documents, 7 leaves together, numbered ff. 148- 155; present in copies: (1) Alexander VII, Pope. Breve di...Papa Alessandro settimo alla...Repubblica di Venetia. In Latin. Official letter of Pope Alexander VII to the Republic of Venice, dated November 23, 1656, pleading for the re-admission of the Jesuits into Venice on account of the usefulness of their religious and educational services. It is interesting to note that the letter precedes by one year the publication of the famous Jansenist attack on the Jesuits: the Provincial Letters of Pascal constituting the spearhead of this attack, published in 1657. (2) Republic of Venice. Risposta della Repubblica di Venezia. The Republic of Venice grants the request made by Pope Alexander VII. The phrasing of the reply is very characteristic (leaf 151r.): "although many tenacious obstacles have been set up against this (the re-admission), and these obstacles in no time and under other pressure could be overcome...", etc. (3) Pope Alexander VII. Breve di nostro Signore Papa Alexandre Settimo alla sudetta Republica di Venezia. In Latin. Official letter of the Pope, thanking the Republic of Venice for granting re-admission to the Jesuits. (4) Juan de Lugo, Cardinal, S.J. Lettera del Padre General dei Gesuiti al Serenissimo Doge della Republica Veneta. Letter to the Doge of Venice, by Cardinal Juan of Lugo (1583-1660), General of the Jesuit Order. thanking him for the re-admission.

(5) _____, Altra del medesimo alla Republica di Venezia. Another letter, describing the grateful reaction of the Company to the favor granted by Venice, and expressing his regrets that he is unable to attend the re-instatement ceremony at Venice.

(6) Doge of Venice. Lettera del Doge di Venezia al Cardinal di Lugo. Letter, dated Feb. 3, 1657, expressing his happiness at issuing the decree concerning the re-admission of the Jesuits. A printed collection of documents concerning the Jesuits in the Republic of Venice was published in 1873 by G. Cappelletti. (BM)

- b. 5, f. 7 (Monaldeschi, Rinaldo, Marchese). Relazione della morte del Marchese Rinaldo Monaldeschi. - Risposta della relazione della morte. Together 9 leaves numbered ff. 155-163. A contemporary account of the execution of Rinaldo Monaldeschi, November 6, 1657, by order of Queen Christina of Sweeden whose lover he had been. Apparently Monaldeschi, formerly leader of the French party in Rome, had communicated to the Spanish government a plan which had been contrived by Queen Christina, in collusion with Mazarin. The plan contemplated the conquest of the Kingdom of Naples (at that time under Spanish rule) and the seating of Christina on the throne.
- The author of the present ms. attributes Monaldeschi's disgrace and subsequent death to the hostility between him and the two Santinelli brothers, both members of Christina's entourage. In an anonymous letter to the Queen, M. discloses certain details of an offensive character to Christina's reputation which had earlier been confided to him by Ludovico Santinelli.
- The author expresses his horror at Christina's decision to have Monaldeschi murdered by Santinelli himself. He adds details concerning the manner of the assassination (leaf 158) and criticizes Santinelli's behavior (leaf 160v). The reply to the above account, accusing its author of having overlooked the pivotal fact on which the assassination was based: Monaldeschi was betrayed rather than a traitor; his murder was an act neither of justice nor of political expediency. A printed account of the assassination appeared in 1662, under the authorship of Father Pierre Le Bel.
- b. 5, f. 8 Christina, Queen of Sweeden. Copy of a letter to the Marchese Santinelli. 2 pages. Dated November 17, 1657. Some passages of the letter read as follows: "I didn't want to injure the credit you have with me by believing you capable of what he alone was capable of doing. He was the one who betrayed me, and he wanted me to believe that you were the traitor...Do not try to justify my action towards anyone; I intend to give an account of it to no-one but God...I know that I have acted in accordance with divine justice...Be sure that I shall support you."
- b. 5, f. 9 (Monaldeschi, Rinaldo, Marchese). Pronostico della morte del Monaldeschi. 14 lines, fol 164v. A satirical sonnet written against Queen Christina of Sweeden. The poet compares Monaldeschi with his namesake in Tasso's Gerusalemme Liberata, and Christina to the sorceress Armida. A Latin distych follows.
- b. 5, f. 10 Christina, Queen of Sweeden. Copies of two letters to the Marchese Santinelli. Together in two leaves, numbered ff. 165-166. The first letter, dated May 10, 1659, is a reply to a message from Santinelli from Vienna. Christina warns him against wasting money and time; she will not pay his expenses. "I speak frankly: think of your case and don't commit any blunder." In the second letter, Christina expresses her shock about Santinelli's flaunting the title ambassador at the Viennese court without her authorization. "I hereby decide to dismiss you from my service. I am thoroughly unwilling to authenticate your blunders with my protection."
- b. 5, f. 11 Christina, Queen of Sweeden. Lettera della Regina di Suezia alla Republica di Genova. Indated. 1 page. Copy of a letter by Christina requesting a place on the coast of Genoa where she might settle after having left France because of the plague. With: _____. Risposta della Republica di Genova alla Madama. Undated. 1 page. Copy of the reply granting the Queen's request.
- b. 5, f. 12 Mazzarino, Giulio. Risposta d'una Lettera scritta al Cardinal Mazzarino concernente l'interesse di stato. 2 leaves, numbered ff. 167-168. Copy of Mazarin's reply, dated Paris, December 14, 1657, which gives an interesting analysis of international relations at a crucial point of history. It is addressed to an unidentified person in Rome. The background of the letter is England's treaty with France, signed October 23, 1657, Mazarin's alliance against Spain, the destruction of the Spanish fleet at Santa Cruz on August 7, 1657, and the surrender of Mardyk to the English on September 25.

BOVIO, CARLO, S.J. VARIAE COMPOSITIONES, & ARGUMENTA

Ms. in Italian and Latin. 142 numbered Leaves. 8vo. Contemporary vellum. Rome, 1648.

b. 9, f. 1

Bovio, Carlo, S. J.> Variae Compositiones, & Argumenta. A collection of short compositions in Italian and Latin prose. Bovio (1614-1705), a Jesuit Father, mirrors in his writings the devotional and sermonizing activities of his Order, and the ornate and the aureate style of the Seicento. This volume contains a great variety of topics, many on religious subjects or historical events, oratorical speeches, etc. From leaf 95-106, there are some Monica, i.e. instructions, which concern the policy of the Jesuit Order towards a ruler or a nobleman, confession, or sermons, or other important matters of this kind. From leaf 107 to the end, there are rules for meditation and prayer. Not in De Backer-Sommervogel.

| b. 20.2 | Comedy in Prose. Comedy in prose. No title. Ms. on paper. 64 ff. N.pl., n.d. On the first leaf is the following notation in pencil: "Gio. Btta Regni (Begni?) carcerato settimane in secreta il Lottis Balagi," indicating that Regni was either the author or the copyist. |
| b. 20.3 | Comedy in Prose. Comedy in prose in three acts. Ms. on paper. 64 leaves. N.pl., n.d. An untitled play of the heroic-comic genre, with historical personages and stock characters from the commedia dell'arte. One of the central personages seems to be Julian the Apostate. Perhaps this play was named after him? Much pageantry, stage directions call for incidental music. |
| b. 20.4 | Comedy in Prose. Prose comedy in three acts. Ms. on paper. 133 pp. N.pl., n.d. A comedy play, untitled (perhaps by Giovanni Girolamo Benetti, a Roman, whose name appears on verso of the last blank leaf). The genre of this play is a combination of the mythological with the commedia dell'arte world. Typical in this respect is the scene between Pantalone (stock character of the Commedia dell'arte) and Venus (pp. 78-79). Pantalone speaks in the Venetian dialect, Venus in correct standard Italian. |

b. 28, f. 1 Edited by Giuseppe Moletto. 4 leaves, 112, 186 pages, blank leaves, 32 leaves (some light damp marks). With 63 (of 64) engraved double page maps, text on the versos. 4to. Contemporary vellum. Venice, Vincentio Valgrisi, 1562.

Ptolemaeus, Claudius, Geographia. An important Ptolemy edition. Giuseppe Moletto from Messina (1531-1588), professor of mathematics in Padua, revised the Latin translation by Willibald Pirckheimer and supplied an extensive commentary to books 1 and 7. The very fine engraved maps had first appeared in Ruscelli's Italian Ptolemy edition. All except four are based upon Gastaldi's maps to the pocket edition of 1548. Ruscelli's maps are extremely well designed and became very influential in the development of cartography. His world map (no. 2) is the first engraved representation of the world divided into two spheres, the right half showing the old and the left half showing the new world.

The following nine maps refer to America: Orbis descriptio; Tierra Nova; Brasil Nuova Tavola; Nueva Hispania; Tierra Nueva; Isola Spagnola Nova; Septentrionalium Partium Nova Tabula; Isola Cuva Nova; Schonlandia Nova. The second world map, "Carta Marina," (No. 3) is lacking in this copy.

Sabin 66489; Harrisse 239 (incomplete); J.C. Brown I (1), p. 217; Ricciardi II, 163 ("Bella e rara ediz."); Nordenskiöld, Faksimile-Atlas, p. 29.

b. 33, f. 9	"Arcadia." Adunanza tenuta dagli Arcadi per la nascita del... Principe di Piemonte. Printed. 4 leaves, 68 pages, 4to. Rome, 1752. On the title page an engraved vignette with the emblem of the Academy of Arcadia, representing a satyr holding a medallion, in the center of which the Arcadian music pipes are shown. Various poems in Italian and Latin, in honor of Vittorio Amadeo III Duke of Savoy, with the poems composed by members of the famous Arcadia Academy in Rome. The Arcadia was founded in 1690; it still exists today under a different name.
b. 33, f. 10	In Convitato di Pietra. A comedy play. Ms. 91 pages. An Italian version of the Don Juan legend, undated. Imitation of Tirso de Molina's famous Burlador de Sevilla, but with the insertion of comic scenes acted by characters from the commedia dell'arte like Pulcinella (speaking in Neapolitan dialect), Mezzettino (speaking in Venetian), Rosetta, Pimpinella; these scenes differentiate this play from the Spanish original. Since no author's name is given in this ms., it is difficult to establish whether this play is by Onofrio Gilberto di Solofra (printed in Naples, 1653) which as Belloni states in his Il Seicento (p. 290) has thus far been unprocurable; or whether it is by Andrea Perrucci, a poet from Palermo, and a translator of Spanish comedies, who published a Convitato di Pietra in 1678, reprinted 1684, and perhaps later. The first Italian imitator of Tirso's Burlador is supposed to be Giacinto Andrea Cicognini (1606-1660); his Convitato di Pietra like our ms. also contains some Uscene buffonesche , but the comic characters have different names. At any rate, this ms. is important in regard to the literary vicissitudes of the Don Juan legend in Italy.

b. 33, f. 12	Resolutiones Congregationis Particularis a S. mo. Benedetto XIV. 15 Nov., 1741. Printed. 12 pages, small folio. Rome, ex typog. Rev. Cam. Apost., 1743. A fine item of printing, dedicated to Pope Benedict XIV (1675-1758), commemorating a competition for fine arts prizes held at the Roman Accademia del Disegno. The poems are almost all in praise of the belle arti : notable is the visione in tercets, by Gioacchino Pizzi, which is an evocation of Michelangelo (pp. 52-59). The prose Orazione in lode delle belle arti is by Francesco Maria Zanotti of Bologna (1692-1777), known as a moralist and a theorist of poetry (Arte Poetica , 1768); but above all, for his attempt to apply Newton's theory of Attraction to psychology (On the attractive force of ideas , 1747).
b. 33, f. 13	Dell'Errario . A brief history of the Roman Treasury from the earliest to Imperial times, interesting for the history of economics. No author mentioned. Ms. 32 pages, small folio.
b. 33, f. 14	Relazione...spettante ad alcune penitenze . An account by an unnamed ecclesiastic, a member of the Congregazione della Scaletta of the Collegio Romano, describing the penitential perversities of a religious self-tormenting mystic, Domenico Cinti, of Pistoia, professor of moral theology and a director of the Congregation of the Holy Virgin, Rome. An evocative study of mysticism and self-mortification. Ms. 20 pages, small folio.
b. 33, f. 15	Al...Padre Segneri al Ragionamento Trigesima Seconda della Parte Terza . Printed. 6 pages. Rome, n.d., probably privately printed, 4to.
b. 33, f. 16	Pasquino a Marforia . Ms. 13 pages, large 4to. A poem in quatrains, of satirical, topical nature. The allusions of contemporary persons and events are explained by names set down to the left of the stanzas. Pasquino and Marforio are the symbol of popular satire against the well-known "big-shots" in the political and social sphere of Rome.
b. 33, f. 17	Trattato fra la Santa Sede e il Re di Spagna . Ms. 3 pages, 4to. Mostly financial matters, no date.
b. 33, f. 18	La città di Velletri and other sonnets and Canzone. 25 pages, Ms. in Italian. Different sizes.
b. 33, f. 19	Metastasio, Abaco . Canzona and other poems. Also poems by Carasio Nonocride (an "arcadian?") and other authors. Ms. 40 pages.
b. 33, f. 20	Accounting sheets for the year 1744 . Ms. 157 pages in different sizes, small 8vo. and 4to.
b. 33, f. 21	Aberilmo Eginense . La Susanna, componimento sacro. Printed. 8vo. 20 pages. Rome, 1754. Aberilmo Eginense is a pseudonym, possibly a member of the Arcadian Academy of Rome. This is the poetic text of an oratorio, set to music by Francisco Garcia and performed at the Congregazione dell' Oratorio, Rome, on the evening of the first Sunday in Lent (1754).
b. 33, f. 22	Diario della Legazione...da Papa Clemente XI al Card. Gozzadini alla Prinipessa Elisabetta Farnesi... Ms. 101 pages. An important historical document. Pope Clement XI was elected to the papacy on Nov. 23, 1700. His pontificate was quite restless: after the outburst of the War of Spanish Succession, each of the belligerent powers (France and the Empire) tried to get the papacy on its side. Emperor Joseph and Philip V both recalled their ambassador to Rome, and the Emperor had his troops raid the Papal States. (Encicl. Cottol., vol. II, col. 1832). This journal of Gozzadini's legation to Elisabeth Farnese obviously precedes the events just recited. Our ms. lists the complete personnel of the Gozzadini Legation. (See Vol. 60, #42).
b. 33, f. 23	Metastasio, Pietro . Fileno a Nice, and Nice in risposta...2 poems. Printed. 1 double page. Double folio broadside.

| b. 42, f. 4 | Ricordi di Papa Paolo III al Card. Farnese suo Nipote. Ms. in Italian. 13 pages, numbered ff. 35-41. Undated. Pope Paul III (1534-1549) was, prior to his appointment to the papacy, Alessandro Farnese. He is famous for his patronage of Michelangelo, for having convoked the Council of Trento, and for his nepotism. He took an active part in the work of inner-ecclesiastical reformation. The biography by C. Capasso (1925), and important books by Jedin and Friedensburg (1960, 1932) deal with him. On the court of Pope Paul III, we have L. Dorez' La Court du Pape Paul III (Paris, 1932) where, presumably, one could find out whether the Ricordi have been published or not. |
| b. 42, f. 5 | Il Strattagemma di Carlo Nona Rè di Francia contro i Rebelli di Dio, et Suoi l'Anno 1572. Descritto da Camillo Capilupi. Ms. in Italian. 120 pages, numbered ff. 43-102. Undated. This is the famous Report by Camillo Capilupi on the St. Bartholomew slaughter in France. Capilupi was born in Mantua and died around the close of the 16th century. The Report was written in Rome, as soon as news about the massacre began to arrive. Capilupi's account was printed, but G. Brunet says that the first edition is introuvable . The report was reprinted, according to Brunet, in Tome I of the Bibliothèque étrangère edited by Aignan; also in Tome VII (Series I) of the Archives curieuses de l'Histoire de France . |
| b. 42, f. 6 | Monitorio dell'eterna maledizione...fulminata da Papa Clemente VII. Ms. in Italian. 7 pages, numbered ff. 103-106. Dated October 12, 1526. This monitorio warns, under threat of dire punishment, all those who would abet and protect the adherents of the rebel Colonna family, who had risen against the Pope. |
| b. 42, f. 7 | Innocentius Papa VIII. Jacobo Vulterrano. Ms. in Latin. 13 pages, numbered ff. 107-113. Undated. A message to Jacopo Volterrano (Jacopo Gherardi, 1434- 1516), Pope Innocent VIII's "trouble shooter," giving him instructions on what measures to take after the murder of Gerolamo Riario, who was killed April 14, 1488 after being the ruler of Forli for 8 years. |
| b. 42, f. 8 | Innocentius Papa VIII Nuntio Suo. Ms. in Latin. 7 pages, numbered ff. 113v-116v. Dated April 24, 1487. Instructions of Pope Innocent VIII to his nuncio, advising him on how to conduct himself during talks with the Florentines and the Duke of Milan regarding the breach of trust committed by Ferdinand, King of Sicily. |

ZAZZERA, FRANCESCO. NAPOLITANO. GIORNALE

b. 75, f. 1

Francesco Zazzera, Giornale...Nel felice gouerno dell Ecc. D. Pietro Girone Duca d'Ossuna Vicerè del Regno di Napoli dalli 7 di Luglio 1616. Ms. in Italian. 362 pages. Folio. Contemporary limp vellum. Naples (?), 17th century.

These are journals on the reign of Don Pedro Giron, Duke of Ossuna, Viceroy of the Kingdom of Naples, starting from July 7, 1616. The Duke of Ossuna was Pedro de Tellez Giron y Guzman. He was born in Osuna in 1574 and died in Madrid in 1624. The appointment of Giron as a Spanish Viceroy of Naples was due preponderantly to the good offices of the great writer Francisco de Quevedo y Villegas, and to those of the Confessor of Philip III.

Giron, during his tenure as Viceroy, strengthened the Spanish fleet, with a view to checkmating Turks, Venetians, and other enemies of Spain. Keeping in contact with the Marquis of Villafranca, Governor of Milan, and the Marquis of Bedman, Spanish Ambassador in Venice, he planned to dominate the whole of Italy, thwarting a similar ambition on the part of France. (Encicl. Universal, vol. 60, p. 649).

MARCALDI, FRANCESCO. NARRATIONE...DELLA...GENOVA

b. 93, f. 1

Marcaldi, Francesco, Narratione dello stato della Republica di Genova. Manuscript of 24 leaves. 4to. Original limp vellum. Naples, 1595.

A fine, calligraphically written manuscript on the Republic of Genoa by Francesco Marcaldi, a 16th century historian from Milan. The manuscript is dedicated to Mutio Carafa and the dedication signed by Marcaldi and dated "In Napoli dell'Anno MDXCIIIIII."

Argelati (Bib. Scriptorum Mediolanensium II, 886 and 2004) lists three historical manuscripts by the author, none about Genoa and none published. However, a relation on Genoa by Marcaldi was published from a 16th century manuscript for the first time in 1881 by I.G. Isola.

The present manuscript is certainly contemporary and might very well be the original. The watermark of the paper ("M" with a star) occurs in Rome, c. 1580 (Heywood 3024 and 3026).

MEMORIE ISTORICHE

Memorie Istoriche, cioe de Fatti piu notabili succeduti dall Anno 1708 sino al 1709 (1709-1711) tra la corte di Roma, Vienna, e Barcellona. Manuscript in 2 volumes. 10 leaves index, 299 ff. plus 20 printed documents; 357 ff., 2 leaves index. 2 vols. Folio. Contemporary (18th century) vellum. Rome, first half of the 18th century. Includes Volume 100.

A detailed and authentic history of the Roman Church under Pope Clement XI at the time of the War of the Spanish Succession, comprising the years 1707-1711. The Historical Memoirs were evidently written soon after the events by someone who was close to the policy makers and had access to all the documents. The Memoirs are interwoven with copies from manuscript documents, decrees, and letters by the leading personalities of worldly and ecclesiastical powers. The volumes start with the bitter feud between Pope Clement XI and Joseph I in 1707-1708 and end with Joseph I's death and the election of Charles VI.

There is a great emphasis placed on the role of Anniballi Albani, nephew of Pope Clement XI. The first volume ends with his departure from Rome for Vienna, the second volume with his being created Cardinal on Dec. 23, 1711. The author of these memoirs might be a secretary of Albani or someone near to him.

Santoro di Caserta, Giulio Antonio, Cardinal of Santa Severina. Acta Sacri Concistorii sub Pio V et Gregorio XIII Pont. Max. a die septima Maii 1570 per totum annum 1574. 171 folios, numbered. Italy, 16th century. Includes Index. 12 unnumbered leaves.

The acts of the consistories convoked by Popes Pius V and Gregory XIII during the period from May 7, 1570 through Feb. 2, 1575. The author of the minutes, Cardinal Santori, was one of the most eminent minds of the clergy in the 16th century and a close advisor to Pope Pius V. He was always a participant and frequently an initiator of the meetings which took place as often as once a week under Gregory.

Santori's record was published under the title Diario concistoriale, edited by Tacchi Venturi, within his series Studi e documenti di storia e diritto, Rome, 1902-1904. In the present ms. copy, there are some records of consistories left out, at the end of the reign of Pope Pius V. See Pastor, Gesch. der Päpste, vols. VIII and IX.
